Look out for the sleek-tongued varments that tell you the Advance is not the best machine in the market. Those that tell you falsehoods are not worthy of being called by any other name. The ADVANCE is guaranteed to do more and better work than any other machine in the market, and is the only machine on the Coast that has NEVER been replaced by other machines. Other dealers have offered new machines for an ADVANCE that has been run two years, and have given parties to understand they would give differences, but were told that the ADVANCE, after two years' run was still much better than old fogy machines, if they were new. And if the ADVANCE engine is not the best traction engine, why is it that I have sold TWELVE on the West Side, between Portland and Corvallis, this year?

Business Has Been Resumed in the Burnt City.

SCENES OF GREAT ACTIVITY

The Work of Feeding the Homeless and Destitute Hundreds.

ANOTHER SMALL LIST OF LOSSES

And Another List of New Buildings—The Saloons Reopened—No Trace of the Missing Man—Incidents.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., Aug. 8.—The indications to-day pointed more strongly than ever to the fact that the city would be rebuilt immediately. Everybody was busy. Never in the history of the city did Riverside avenue and other streets present the metropolitan appearance that they did yesterday. On either side of the street temporary quarters were being put up that business might be resumed. Nearly every one that was formerly in business within the burned district has reopened and is doing business. Our business men have received the greatest encouragement from the wholesale houses they formerly bought goods from. No sooner had the news of the disaster flashed over the wire than telegrams came pouring in on the retailers to order all the goods they needed. This fact alone shows that Spokane Falls is regarded as a city of vast commercial importance, and is recognized by wholesalers and jobbers from New York to San Francisco as such. Although some of the merchants lost all they had in the fire, their plucky and energetic spirit and business qualities has placed them in a position where they can command goods to restablish their business, and no time has been lost to take advantage of it.

There has been considerable activity in real estate circles. There has been but little property sold within the burned district, simply because that property is not for sale. Real estate offices have been besieged by parties inquiring about inside property. The impression prevailed that property in the business portion would be sold cheap, but that was a mistake, and instead of going down the price advanced. Some lots on Front street, between Howard and Stevens, were sold yesterday, however. A great many offers have been made for property which the owners refused, notwithstanding the price offered was in excess of what they asked for the property before the fire. General A. V. Curry sold a lot 100 feet front on Sprague, between Pine and Hilliard, for $15,000, which is more than he offered it for previous to Sunday. The activity in preparations to rebuild yesterday was most encouraging, and notwithstanding the heavy losses that have been sustained, there is little mourning.

THE RELIEF COMMITTEE.

How the Supplies Are Received and Distributed.

The relief committee is doing grand work in relieving all cases of distress which come before them. Harry C. Hayward, the secretary and general manager, has worked day and night. Mr. G. W. McEllimy, the assistant manager, has been on the go ever since the fire, looking after the receiving and distributing of supplies, etc.

The storehouse and eating room of the relief committee are located at the corner of Washington and Main streets, where they have fed, up to date, 1900 people, and furnished supplies from the storehouse to 180 families and 25 Chinamen. Robert Inglis attends to the distribution of supplies; W. F. Kohlhauff receives goods; G. A. Vollum looks after the tents, L. C. Baily attends to getting the goods out of the cars. The committee employs four cooks, eighteen waiters, eight dishwashers and several roustabouts, and keep three cooking stoves running all the time.

The first car load of supplies received was from Walla Walla, Tuesday morning. A trestle burned down on the Northern Pacific railroad Monday, which delayed the goods from Portland and Tacoma, but three car loads came in Wednesday at 2 P. M. Two baggage cars loaded with tents, blankets and provisions came in from Helena yesterday, which were of great benefit, as a great many destitute people are sleeping in the woods.

ADDITIONAL LOSSES.

On Which There Appears To Have Been Light Insurance.

The following additional losses were reported to-day:

T. Lynd, boots and shoes, 210 Howard street; loss $5000. Insurance nominal.

S. S. Gullet, solicitor; loss $250. No insurance.

H. M. Moseley, loss $400. No insurance.

Matheson & Johnson, 16 Stevens street; loss, $500; no insurance.

O. L. Jeffrey, restaurant; loss, $100; no insurance.

Seugfelder Bros., home bakery; loss, $1800; insurance, $1000.

W. T. Moss, Grand hotel; loss in personal effects, $250; no insurance.

Slyder, Dorsey & Co., the Davis music house; loss, $8000; insurance, $4000.

Starkey & Co., real estate, over the First National bank; loss $250, no insurance.

Shaver Bros., dealers in fruits, etc., corner Post street and Riverside avenue; loss $2500, insurance $1700.

Johnston & Dabney, attorneys, First National bank building; loss $4200, no insurance.

Dr. Reno, over the First National bank, loss $1000; no insurance.

Gregory, Carson & Co., real state, 119½ Riverside avenue, loss $3000; no insurance.

White & Wheatly, real estate, cigars and tobacco, 315 Howard street; loss $3650; insurance $1500.

Thomas Ness, Western hotel, loss $1500; insurance $1000.

R. G. White, hay and grain, West Sprague street; loss $700; insurance $200.

J. N. Flood, lunch counter, 403 and 405 Post street; loss $1500; insurance $700. He has opened again at the corner of Sprague and Monroe.

Houghton & Williams, real estate, Frankfurt block, loss $1000; no insurance.

NEW BUILDINGS.

Over Fifty Magnificent Structures Will Be Speedily Erected.

Louis Zeigler commenced excavating yesterday for a new building on his corner, opposite the site of the First National bank. Mr. Zeigler said there was little use standing around and mourning. He will start at once on a five-story structure and will push the work as fast as material can be procured.

Hon. A. M. Cannon, who was one of the first to consider the matter of rebuilding, will immediately commence upon a magnificent five-story structure on the corner of Riverside avenue and Mill street, where his old building formerly stood, as soon as he decides upon his plans.

J. C. Whitten will build a five-story brick on the corner of Sprague and Madison streets.

The Washington Stone Company is erecting an office on the corner of First and Mill streets.

F. M. Tull said he intended to proceed immediately upon his block, which is to be five stories high.

C. W. Carson will build a five-story structure, 60x90, on the corner of Howard and Sprague, with pressed brick front and sandstone trimmings, at a cost of $75,000.

Already over fifty magnificent structures have been proposed, and by men who will not stop until they are completed. The buildings range from three to five stories high, and but few will be as low as three stories. The list thus far obtained is small compared to the number that actually intend to build.

THE INSURANCE ADJUSTERS.

They Have Comfortable Quarters, and Are Enjoying Themselves.

The insurance adjusters are rapidly coming in from all parts of the country, eighteen having already arrived. By to-morrow twenty-five more will be here, who will swell the list to forty-three, and they will at once get down to business and adjust all losses. Concordia hall is headquarters, and the gentlemen have very fine accommodations. They have fitted up a large dining-room with chairs, tables, snowy linen, good tableware, etc. They have a first-class cook and waiters in the hall. In fact, they will fare nearly as well as though they were stopping at a first-class hotel. They have also a grand piano, and as there are a good many singers and players in the party, they will pass the time pleasantly. The place looks somewhat like a board of trade. Tables are set in front and half around the hall, each with a sign painted in large letters of the insurance company represented.

The following companies are already on the ground: The Commercial, of California; Fire Association, of Philadelphia; Granite State, of New Hampshire; Hartford, of Hartford, Ct.; Liverpool, London & Globe, of London, Eng.; New Zealand, of New Zealand; Commercial Union, of London; Phœnix, of Hartford, Ct.; Howe, of New York; Anglo Nevada, of California; North British and Mercantile, of Edinburg; German American, of New York; Northern, London and Queen, of England; the Connecticut, of Hartford, Connecticut; Oregon, of Portland; Farmers and Merchants, of Albany, Oregon; Traders, of Chicago; Union, of San Francisco; State Investment and Insurance Company, of California; Home Mutual, of California; Lion, of London, England; Imperial, of London, England; the Orient, of Hartford, Connecticut; the National, of Hartford, Connecticut.

THE SALOONS REOPENED.

Authority Granted in a Proclamation by the Mayor.

The following proclamation was issued to-day:

WHEREAS, It was deemed necessary for the peace and welfare of the city to close all saloons during the excitement following the fire, and peace and quiet has prevailed in the city, business is gradually returning to its accustomed channels, and the time has come when we believe that all danger of any disturbance is passed, and these precautionary measures may in some degree be lessened. Now, therefore, I, Fred Furth, mayor of Spokane Falls, do hereby grant permission to all regularly licensed saloons to open their places of business between the hours of six (6) o'clock A. M. and seven (7) o'clock P. M. of each day, and transact their legitimate business between those hours, selling by the drink or glass only, cautioning and warning all persons not to sell or give any drinks to any person intoxicated in the least degree, under the penalty of having his or her license revoked.

Given under my hand and seal, this 9th day of August, 1889.
FRED FURTH, Mayor.

FIRE NOTES.

Another Worthless Safe—No Clue to the Missing Man.

S. Lydy, of the Tycoon, was very much disappointed on opening his safe yesterday. From its general appearance, when hauled up to the sidewalk, every one supposed the contents were well preserved. It opened readily, but as the door swung back the heat from within drove everybody away, and in a short time it was found that the gold coin had been melted and run into lumps, while around the sides silver and gold pieces were glued to the walls by the intense heat. Bank bills and valuable papers were charred remains of what they had once been, and a valuable sealskin sacque, belonging to Mr. Lydy's wife, that had been placed in the safe for security, was found to be utterly ruined and scarcely distinguishable.

C. S. Branch, of the Indianapolis Journal, who was reported lost in the Arlington hotel during the great fire, has not yet been heard from. Mr. J. W. Kimball, tree agent, of Rochester, N. Y., says he saw him at 4 P. M., Sunday. They intended to buy two lots of E. P. Galbraith, and Mr. Branch had his board paid in advance, and roomed in No. 15, three doors from the room in which Charles Davis the man who was killed by jumping from the window of the Arlington lodged.

H. A. VanValkenburg, president of the Northwestern Pacific Mortgage Company, yesterday cabled from Amsterdam, Holland, to Messrs. Binkley & Taylor, the company's attorneys, that his company could supply all the money required for rebuilding the city.

SYMPATHY AND ASSISTANCE.

Outside Banks Express Confidence in Spokane's Stability.

TACOMA DENTAL DEPOT.

AN OFFER BY THE N. P.

Building Material Will Be Carried at Half Rates.

The following telegram was received this morning:

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 7.

To A. M. Cannon, Chairman Relief Committee, Spokane Falls: For ninety days we will transport to Spokane Falls from any point in Washington Territory building material in carload lots, consisting of lumber, brick, lime, sash, doors and mouldings at one-half our tariff rates, and stone at 1 cent per ton per mile, a minimum charge of $5 per car. All material to get the benefit of these rates to be consigned to the owner of the building, and a copy of the building permit to be filed with our agent.

J. M. HANNAFORD, Traffic Manager.
W. S. MELLON, General Manager.

THE PRESIDENT'S MOVEMENTS.

His Journey to the Sea a Prolonged and Enthusiastic Ovation.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—President Harrison arose much refreshed this morning, and pleasantly received the early greetings of the members of his party and his hosts, representing the state and city. A late breakfast was served in the ebony room of the Vendome. Shortly after 8 A. M. the party entered carriages, and, with a cavalry escort, drove through the crowded streets to the depot, to the rattling accompaniment of cheers.

A special train pulled out of the Boston & Maine depot at 9 A. M., enroute to Bar Harbor. A large crowd witnessed the departure, which was made to the accompaniment of a salute by Battery A and the continued cheers of the crowd.

ON THE WAY.

The first great demonstration after the departure from Boston was made at South Lawrence, where the train stopped. There this morning the crowd around the depot cheered as the train stopped, guns thundered a salute, flags waved and bands played. The president went to the rear of the car, and shook hands with hundreds of people. Governor Goodell, of New Hampshire, and staff joined the train at this point. Mayor Mack formally welcomed the president to Lawrence and the president bowed in response. Again the crowd cheered, with cries of "long live the president," and the train moved off.

At Haverhill there was a great crowd, a great arch of welcome, cheers, cannon, etc. The Brother Jonathan club presented the president with a basket of flowers, which he acknowledged in a few words. These scenes were repeated at Exeter, N. H., where the president shook hands with the jostling, surging crowd.

At South Berwick, on the Maine side of the river, the New Hampshire officials retired and those of the state of Maine took their place to escort the president.

At Old Orchard, the summer residents and permanent population turned out en masse to give the president a hearty welcome.

At the depot at Portland, Me., the president was greeted by a great crowd. Hon. T. B. Reed introduced the president, and the latter bowed amid great cheering.

Next came Brunswick. Another crowd was cheering, and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

At Augusta, the following gentlemen joined the train: Mayor Lane, Postmaster Manley, Hon. J. L. Stevenson, minister to the Sandwich Islands, and National Committeeman J. Manchester Haynes.

At Waterville an immense crowd greeted his arrival, and the president was conducted to a stage which had been erected in sight of the car. Mayor Meade introduced the guest to the audience, and the president addressed the crowd briefly: "The purpose of my coming to Maine, as you well know, was to visit your distinguished citizen, my personal friend and cabinet officer, James G. Blaine. [Great cheering.] I beg you will therefore allow me simply to thank you for the cordiality with which you have greeted me and to wish you all good and bid you good-bye." Amid cheering the president returned to the train.

Bangor was reached about 3:30 P. M. While a salute was being fired Congressman Boutelle, Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, Mayor Bragg, ex-Governor Davis and other gentlemen entered the car and greeted the president. Congressman Boutelle introduced him to the multitude, who gave three cheers.

At Desert another crowd was met. Secretary Blaine, who had come over on a special boat from Bar Harbor, walked along the platform between the people, and stepping into the car, greeted the president. The president and his secretary of state, followed by the party, left the cars and walked through the throng to the steamer, which was brightly decorated everywhere decorations could be placed.

They kept their places on deck until the wharf at Bar Harbor was reached and the island reception began. A national salute was fired. The president and Blaine landed and walked along the wharf to where the carriages were awaiting them. The two notables entered a stylish landau. In turning a corner one wheel grazed the wheel of another carriage which was trying to turn at the same time and the latter's wheel was smashed. Walker Blaine, Halford and Lodge followed at once in carriages drawn by Blaine's horses, and a dozen vehicles closed in behind.

Arriving at Stanwood, the president and secretary of state were received by Mrs. Blaine. This evening the president is dining quietly with the Blaine family.

MRS. HARRISON IN NANTUCKET.

NANTUCKET, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Harrison arrived here this morning in response to a telegram calling her to the bedside of her sister.

A TUMULT IN THE COMMONS.

Irish Yells Greet an Attempt to Assault Balfour.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—In the house of commons last night, during the debate on the Irish question, Mr. Balfour, secretary for Ireland, referred to two resident magistrates refusing to subscribe for a race meeting because Ted Harrington, a member of the commons, had denounced the police as cowards, liars and uniformed bloodhounds.

Harrington challenged Balfour to give his authority, and Balfour replied that he spoke on the best of authority.

Harrington started across the floor rapidly, apparently with the intention of assaulting Balfour.

Tremendous excitement and an uproar followed. The chairman's yells for order were drowned in Irish yells. The tumult continued for a quarter of an hour, the chairman warning the Parnellites to control their feelings. When order was restored, both men apologized for their hasty acts.

THE TUNNEL AT CUMBERLAND GAP.

The Heading Knocked In Yesterday With Appropriate Ceremonies.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 8.—The heading of the great tunnel at Cumberland Gap, which unites the states of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, was knocked in at 6 o'clock this evening with appropriate ceremonies. The tunnel is the largest in the state, and its completion was the accomplishment of the greatest engineering feat ever undertaken in the state. Trains, in passing through the tunnel, will pass through sections of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia.

THE CHEROKEES UNFAVORABLE.

Monday's Elections Show a Strong Feeling Against the Sale of the Lands.

TAHLEQUAH, Ind. Ty., Aug. 8—To the great surprise of every one complete returns from Monday's elections of members of the Cherokee legislature, shows the success of a large majority of the Downing's party candidates, who are supporters of Chief Mayes and his policy against the sale of the strip to the government. Chief Mayes has not returned a reply to the commissioners' offer, as he promised. He was expected here to-day. The commission can do nothing until his answer is received.

BURNED IN EFFIGY.

A Republican Who Dared to Appoint a Negro to Office.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 8.—Postmaster Lewis and Colonel A. E. Buck were burned in effigy before the court house to-night in the presence of probably 10,000 people. This action is the result of Lewis's appointing a negro to a place in the registry department, where he would come in contact with a white lady clerk. Colonel Buck is the republican leader, and is supposed to have procured the appointment.

THE LION LASHES HIS TAIL.

British Rights in Behring Sea Must be Protected from American Outrage.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—A special cable from London to the Gazette stated that the imperial authorities have decided that British rights in Behring sea must be protected from further American outrages.

Sentenced to the Penitentiary.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8.—Darwin W. Pratt, who was the St. Louis agent for the McCormick Harvesting Machine Company, of Chicago, went to the state penitentiary at Jefferson City last night and surrendered himself. Post, the bookkeeper, embezzled, and on his statement Pratt was indicted as an accomplice, tried and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. This was several years ago, and the supreme court has just affirmed its decision, which sends Pratt to the penitentiary. It is believed that he is innocent and will be pardoned by Governor Francis.

A Murderer Escapes.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 8.—In response to the request of the sheriff of Bolivar county, Governor Lowrey ordered a company of militia to report to the sheriff of the county to assist in the arrest of Weissenger, who murdered Editor Hull a few days ago, at Rosedale, Miss. Weissenger was reported to be in the hands of his friends in Concordia. When the sheriff and militia went there to-day, he was informed that Weissenger had escaped Tuesday night. It is stated that his friends carried him to the railroad station, where he took the train.

SALMON FOR SPOKANE.

A Large Shipment From a Fishery Below Celilo.

A VERY GENEROUS CONTRIBUTION

The Catching Approved by the Fish Commissioners—Will the Governor Interfere? A Remarkable Spectacle

BLALOCK, Or., Aug. 8.—On to-day's east bound O R & N train are thirty nine tons of salmon in ice, 140 pounds each, shipped by F H Taffe from his fishery below Celilo for the Spokane sufferers.

Yesterday Mr Taffe telegraphed to Mayor Furth of Spokane Falls as follows: "I can send you [illegible] the salmon your stricken city can use [illegible] if Governor Pennoyer will give me permission to catch them."

The following answer was received:

"Many thanks for the kind offer of salmon for our stricken people. We accept [illegible] the deed of kindness manifested [illegible] friendly chord. [illegible]"

Fish Commissioners Reed and Campbell are at The Dalles and at once authorized Mr Taffe, who is under bonds, to go ahead and catch the fish, and the result is the shipment noted above. The fish commissioners were present and oversaw the catching and shipping of the fish, and will stand between Taffe and the governor if the latter attempts to make trouble.

While the train was taking on the fish at Taffe's fishery, an OREGONIAN reporter went down to see the pool where they were caught. It was a wonderful sight. The pool, about fifteen feet in diameter, was packed with salmon of different kinds swarming around, while a steady stream was climbing the Little Cascades and a steady stream struggling out at the other end. The rapids below were full of fish, the backs and fins of which could be seen above the water in all directions. All the big Chinooks with spawn were returned to the river when caught. Around the sides of the pool the rocks were covered with a slimy, wriggling, writhing mass of eels, a most disgusting spectacle.

It is hoped that the railway company will waive freight charges, but if objection is raised Mr Taffe will pay the freight.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Over a Thousand Bushels of Grain Go Up in Smoke.

SALEM, Or., Aug 8.—Last evening while Giebler Bros' steam threshing outfit was at work for Peter Bach, between Aumsville and Sublimity, fire was in some way communicated to the straw, and in spite of all efforts, the greater part of forty-five acres of grain besides the threshing separator, was totally destroyed. When first discovered the fire was not considered serious, it being thought it could be extinguished without damage, but a west wind seemed suddenly to spring up, which swept it into the straw stack, and such resistance as could be offered was in vain. Luckily Mr Bach had hauled the grain to the granary as fast as it was turned out of the machine, and in this way 150 bushels of oats and fifty bushels of wheat were saved. The remainder in the stack, about 900 bushels of oats and 200 bushels of wheat, went up in smoke.

THE GOVERNOR MOODY

She Has Been Fitted Out, and Will Now Commence Cruising About the Bar

ASTORIA, Oregon, Aug 8.—The pilot schooner Governor Moody, with Pilots Grasman, Doig and Wood, will go to sea to-morrow, being provisioned and fitted out.

The following are their instructions: "To the pilots of the schooner Governor Moody:—You are hereby notified that the schooner shall be kept cruising at all times outside of the Columbia River bar with bar pilots on board, unless prevented by tempestuous weather. Said schooner shall at all times at the expense of the pilots, carry such sufficient supply of provisions and water as may be necessary for the relief of vessels in distress. Such pilots must at all times extend aid to all vessels in stress of weather or in case of disaster. By order of the president.

A BOY'S REWARD.

Manager Koehler Presents Him With a Nicely Engraved Watch.

SALEM, Aug 8.—R. Koehler, manager, on behalf of the Southern Pacific Company this afternoon presented a nice silver watch to Russell Coleman, the boy who brought in word to the depot of the burning bridge near this city July 29th. Coleman is grandson of General John F. Miller. The watch was nicely engraved and accompanied by an appropriate letter from Mr Koehler.

The inscription is as follows: "Presented to Russell Coleman by the Southern Pacific Company in appreciation of his services in notifying the company of the burning of bridge No 148 on July 29, 1889."

FROM INDEPENDENCE.

The Railroad Commissioners Inspecting the Lines in the Vicinity.

INDEPENDENCE, Or., Aug 8.—Yesterday Robert Clow, of Junction City, G W Colvig, of Grant's Pass, and J P Faull of Baker City, railroad commissioners, and W H Grondahl, a civil engineer of the Southern Pacific, were in our city long enough to eat dinner. They were inspecting the roadbed of the Oregon & California, and found it to be in a very good condition. They are inspecting the narrow gauge lines of the West Side to-day. It is to be hoped that the road will be improved.

Independence will send 2000 small sacks of wheat, samples of fruit, hops, etc., and 10,000 circulars to Milwaukee to-morrow.

THE NATCHEZ PASS COAL STRIKE

Petroleum Said to Have Been Discovered—Many Claims Being Taken.

NORTH YAKIMA, Aug 8.—A man reached here to-day from Natchez pass with a bottle of coal oil in the crude state, which represents a find which he will at present say very little about, but a company has been formed which will soon develop the matter. It is learned definitely that the find is in the Natchez pass.

The anthracite coal find in the pass has been far enough developed to demonstrate that it consists of an immense deposit. It is definitely reported to-day that the coal field is more extensive than was at first supposed. Parties are pouring in from every direction to secure claims. The well-defined veins are traceable for long distances, and it is without doubt the most extensive coal field on the coast. The formation of the country where this coal is located is different from most finds yet made on the Pacific coast, in that the accompanying strata is unbroken and undisturbed.

The Order Subsidizing a New Transportation Company Rescinded

TACOMA, Aug 8.—Twelve miles of sewers have been laid in Tacoma since last fall.

The Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting to-day rescinded the order passed by them on Tuesday evening subsidizing to the extent of $4000 a new transportation company. The company's boats were designed to run to North Bay.

The two Silsby engines, recently ordered, arrived here to-day.

Over $1000 was subscribed to-day for the benefit of the Spokane sufferers.

The mayor is being deluged with letters from marriageable women all over the country.

The dynamo for the new power house of the Tacoma street railway arrived to-day.

The report in a Seattle paper that the Tacoma guards are going to Spokane to assist in preserving order is incorrect.

A NEWSBOY INSTANTLY KILLED

He Had Delivered the "Oregonian" in Seattle for a Long Time

SEATTLE, W. T., Aug 8.—A newsboy on the Seattle Lake Shore & Eastern train was killed to-night at Smith's Cove, near this city. He was standing on the rear platform of a car which backed down violently upon a flat car telescoping the caboose, and killing the boy instantly. For a long time he delivered THE OREGONIAN in Seattle. It was impossible to ascertain his name to-night, although there were dozens of people on board who knew him.

THE BOY IDENTIFIED

The newsboy killed has just been identified as Edward Fisher, of Centralia, where his grandmother, Mrs. Roundtree, and sister now reside.

The Oregon Land Company is having a magnificent display of grain, grasses and fruits fixed up to take to Milwaukee on the 19th. The quantity and quality will surprise Eastern observers.

FROM PUYALLUP.

Suicide of a Victim of Delirium Tremens—Collision of Freight Trains

PUYALLUP, W. T., Aug. 8.—At Alderton this afternoon, J. P. Devine, 26 years old, threw himself in front of a construction train and had his head cut off. He had been having the delirium tremens, but was rational just before and walking around town. He was stopping temporarily at Church Warden's ranch.

This morning, in the thick fog at Cascade, nineteen miles from here, two freight trains collided. Considerable damage was done.

A RESIDENT OF MEXICO.

The "Chronicle" Discovers That Plunkett, the Defaulter, Is Alive.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—The Chronicle has discovered that Thomas F. Plunkett, who mysteriously disappeared from Hartford, Conn., August 22, 1888, and whose supposed death in Mexico was telegraphed over the country from Hartford, Conn., on the 17th of last April, is to-day alive and is a resident of the City of Mexico.

At the time of his disappearance Plunkett was president of the Hartford Silk Manufacturing Company, and a later investigation showed that he was a defaulter in the sum of about $300,000.

The Chronicle states that several letters have been received here from Plunkett lately, the last one being to-day. The recipient thereof is Arthur Robert Impey, who was a follower of Riel and a lieutenant in the rebellion of a few years since.

CALIFORNIA NEWS ITEMS.

The Blythe Will Contest

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 8.—Detective Deasy testified in the Blythe case to-day that shortly after the death of Governor Haight Blythe showed him a paper, which he said was his (Blythe's) will, and asked witness' advice as to the executors, saying he did not wish old men as his executors as his daughter Florence was so young. He showed witness a photograph of the girl and her mother, and on witness joking him about the girl's non-resemblance to him, Blythe became quite angry, insisting that it was his child. The cross-examination of the witness followed.

Detective Deasy was questioned regarding his services to Blythe. He said that he had on two occasions hidden Blythe at Piedmont to escape the services of papers. He had paid out a great deal of money for him.

When asked for what purposes the money was spent, witness said to defeat the new constitution and help elect Samuel J. Tilden as president. They had not succeeded in these instances. Witness had also paid out money at Blythe's intimation to defeat the purchase of the Spring Valley Water Company's works, to help elect Garfield president, and to defeat the bill which George A. Tyler introduced in the legislature to enable women to get alimony pending the trial of divorce proceedings. The bill had passed the assembly when witness reached Sacramento, but he killed it in the senate by spending money for wine suppers and dinners.

An Interesting Sham Battle

MONTEREY, Aug 8.—Twenty five hundred people from here and the surrounding country witnessed a sham battle this morning. The troops of the regular army numbering 650, took part in the attack which was made on a hill two miles from the starting point. They formed a semi-circle and advanced on all sides at once. Three quarters of an hour was consumed in reaching the summit. The maneuvers of the artillery and cavalry were interesting and exciting. General Miles commanded in person, assisted by Colonel Shafter.

Hop Vines Prostrated

SACRAMENTO, Aug 8.—Of late several hop growers near here have sustained heavy losses by the vines being blown down. A. Menke, who is perhaps one of the most extensive hop raisers in the country, met with a severe loss yesterday. A number of large poles supporting the wires on which the hops were trailed snapped off close to the earth and in an instant fifteen acres of vines were lying flat on the ground. Quite a breeze was blowing at the time. Menke says his loss will be fully [illegible].

WASHINGTON POLITICS.

Mild Murmurs of Discontent Among the People.

THE OFFICES AND THEIR SEEKERS

The Republican and Democratic State Conventions—Personal and Political Notes and Comment

OLYMPIA, W. T., Aug. 8.—Many of the disgruntled ones who come here to look the convention over bring information that there is considerable opposition to the constitution as adopted thus far, and that there is talk of its defeat by the people. Those who think that way must not forget that the two great political parties will have tickets in the field and struggle for the supremacy at the same polls where the constitution is voted for or against. The man who votes for state officers and members of the legislature is not going to vote against the constitution, no matter how much he may dislike that document.

Politics will begin to simmer in the territory next week. The election of 283 delegates to the republican nominating convention, which assembles in Walla Walla on the 4th of September, will take place throughout the new state on Saturday, August 24. The constitutional convention will hardly be through its work by that time, but as the election for the adoption or rejection of the constitution takes place on the first day of October it will be seen that there is left but twenty-eight days, or four even weeks, after the nominations are made, for a campaign where so much is at stake.

The capital question, which was settled to-day by relegating it to the people at the polls, and the prohibition question will be voted on at the coming election, the latter by separate article. Even the prohibitionists are talking of putting a ticket in the field, which shows that they are not going to vote against the constitution simply because a prohibition article was not placed in the body of the document.

THE OFFICES

An effort is being made in King county by certain republicans to run Ex-Governor Ferry off the track as the candidate for governor at the Walla Walla convention. The idea advanced is that if a Seattle man is nominated for governor, the rest of the new state is not going to give that thriving city a United States senator also; but Governor Ferry is undoubtedly in the field to stay. He sent a telegram to a friend in this city yesterday saying that he would not turn his back to his enemies or desert his friends. It is true that the governor is not elected at the same time a senator is chosen, and it is also true that a locality having a governor would not stand as good a chance for a senator as one without. This is considered pretty good politics in a new state, where the offices are to be parceled out to the best advantage, in order to ensure party success. Besides, it is well known that all the bright men and able statesmen of the new state are not in one locality. Spokane, Walla Walla and Tacoma each wants a United States senator as well as Seattle.

THE CONVENTION'S WORK

Section 4 of the article on revenue and taxation which was amended by Griffitts of Spokane Falls so as to allow the legislature to exempt any property from taxation, and which was passed yesterday, was attacked this morning by T. M. Reed, Turner and others. Mr Reed said it was absurd to have men coming before the legislature with all sorts of schemes to exempt property from taxation, when such evils could be prevented. Besides that, he said that the section conflicted with sections 1 and 2, which said that all property shall be assessed and taxed by a uniform and equal rate. The convention refused, however, to reconsider the vote on the question, and the section remains as a part of the constitution.

When the afternoon session began Griffitts made an effort to amend nearly every section of the report of the committee on legislative department, but failed in the attempt, the convention sticking closely to the report of the committee as presented by Chairman J. Z. Moore of Spokane Falls.

THE DEMOCRATS.

The democratic nominating convention of the territory will assemble at Ellensburgh, probably on the 5th of September. It is said that Governor Semple, now of Tacoma, will be the nominee for governor, and J. Z. Griffitts of Spokane Falls. Lieutenant governor Fred Stein, of Walla Walla, is also mentioned for governor.

C. Warner, of Colfax, is named for congress. He is chairman of the democratic territorial committee, but was not always a rock-ribbed democrat. He was once a republican, and is a brother to Warner, the greenbacker member of congress from Ohio.

M. M. Godman of Dayton, who has made a good record in the convention, is also spoken of for congress.

The democratic candidates for senators will probably be J. J. Browne of Spokane Falls, and Charles S. Voorhees of Colfax. For judges, B. L. Sharpstein of Walla Walla, A. E. Isham of Seattle, W. G. Langford of Walla Walla, Thomas Burke of Seattle, Thomas H. Cann of Seattle, and Thomas Wampler of Tacoma. For attorney general, J. B. Metcalfe of Seattle is named.

PERSONAL MENTION

A large number of Tacoma visitors to the convention put in appearance to-day. Among them are C. W. Derickson and wife, S. Collyer, cashier of the Merchants National bank, Fremont Campbell, P. Paulson, S. C. Milliken, W. H. Fletcher, W. A. Wallerstein, Stewart Rice and Louis Campbell.

R. W. Bryant, of the New York World, was in the city to-day, as was Colonel J. C. Haines, Judge Struve and T. Conover, of Seattle. The latter-named gentleman was on his way to Gray's harbor, to look after real estate interests.

AN IRASCIBLE OLD GENTLEMAN.

Some of the newspaper men are very much exercised over a report, which they contend was spread by the venerable delegate from Adams county, Mr Buchanan, to the effect that the newspapers were all bribed by the railroads to suppress the debate on section 21, the railroad commission section. The truth is the papers did not publish as much of the debate as they wished to, simply because the Spokane fire was more interesting reading matter. The delegate referred to, however, had been treated more fairly by the papers than by his brother delegates. They have published his peculiar views on all subjects, while the delegates have not listened to them, but fled the house, leaving empty chairs.

A railroad commission was the pet scheme of Mr Buchanan. C. M. B.

THE RIO GRANDE TRAIN ROBBERY.

A Trifling Incident Alone Prevented Wholesale Murder.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 8.—It would now seem that the train robbery on the Denver & Rio Grande railway between Thompson Springs and Crescent, Utah, last Tuesday evening was one of the most desperate ever conceived, and had it not been for a trifling incident wholesale murder would undoubtedly have been committed.

Express Messenger Willis says that the robbers were armed with no less than half a dozen dynamite cartridges, with which it was their intention and threat to blow up the train unless the company's safe, which contained a large sum of money and many valuables, was opened. When the outlaws learned that they could not effect an entrance to the car, a consultation was held. Three of them were for using the dynamite and urged that the original plan of blowing up the train be carried out, unless the messenger should surrender the company's property, but the fourth, who appears to have been the leader, objected, and his objection prevailed when he pointed to a locomotive headlight a short distance ahead of them. It was the east-bound express, side tracked at Crescent. The fireman, who was standing by, said that unless they accomplish their work soon the east bound train would come down to see what was up, which caused them to abandon their plan.

As they rode away after plundering the passengers, one of the robbers threw back one of the dynamite cartridges, but it failed to explode and was picked up by the fireman. It is believed that the robbers are the same men who a month ago robbed the Telluride bank of about $40,000 in broad daylight.

THE SOUTH FORK FISHING CLUB.

A Committee Appointed at Johnstown to Push the Test Case Against Them.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug 8.—A meeting of business men was held this evening to take steps toward determining the liability of the South Fork Fishing Club for the great disaster. A committee was appointed and funds will be raised to help the suit of John Thomas & Sons against the club, a test case.

The body of a 15-year-old girl was found near the business part of Main street this evening. It was covered with earth and was remarkably well preserved.

MORE BODIES FOUND

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 8.—Three more bodies have been taken out of the ruins near the lower end of town.

THE THOMPSON SPRINGS ROBBERS.

They Are Thought To Be the Same Gang Who Held Up the Telluride Bank.

DENVER, Col., Aug 8.—No trace has yet been heard of the Thompson Springs, Utah, robbers. Both the Rio Grande railway and the express companies will offer large rewards for the capture of the outlaws, and several well organized posses have left Grand Junction and Green river in pursuit.

It is the opinion of the officers that the robbers are the same gang who some months ago successfully held up the Telluride, Col., National bank for $40,000.

THE GERMANS EXCITED.

New and Serious Complications Arising in Samoa.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—The Germans are again becoming agitated over affairs in Samoa. There is reason to fear new and serious complications which may entirely undo the work of the recent Samoan conference.

According to these accounts, Mataafa, who agreed to maintain the status quo until the treaty drafted by the conference could be ratified by the United States senate, has entirely repudiated this agreement and compelled King Tamasese to hand over to him the prison and police force of Apia. He has dismissed the German [illegible] and replaced [illegible] natives who had been [illegible]. Mataafa [illegible] the municipal government [illegible] for Germans still more than this [illegible] faith [illegible] of Mataafa [illegible] on the German [illegible] at Mulinuu [illegible] the dead [illegible] took place, only in front of the [illegible] Mataafa's followers carried [illegible] of Emperor William I [illegible] had been washed ashore from the wreck of the German warship Eber.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is fortunate that every man who owns land near Portland is not as alive to exorbitant impressions as is the Mount Tabor man who had a few acres there that he sold so advantageously that he lost his head and went wild over it. His land ran up in value so fast that he could not comprehend it, and when he finally converted it into gold he was afraid of his life and had to be sent to the asylum, where he died. A year ago he was a thrifty farmer, and now he has left the world behind him because of too great prosperity. Dickens [illegible] would have worked up his [illegible] but in our day he was only a queer case among the many who are queer.

Caldwell, Idaho, has an old gentleman who ever plays the part of Good Samaritan. He performs good deeds and kindly acts. He is loved and honored for his benevolence, and asks no better happiness than to be able to relieve the distress of fellowmen. When his own means give out he humbly asks and others gladly contribute towards his charities. Such a reputation is better worth having than riches or fine clothing or human honors. When any unfortunate needs help such men are ever to be found ready to help him, and when he leaves the world will lament his loss and his benevolence will be remembered. His good qualities will smell sweet and blossom in the dust.

Some creameries are burned up as witness the one at Pullman, W. T., and others are about as well off as if they were. Fire consumed the packing house at Colfax, W. T., which was [illegible] loss for the enterprise was a fair success. Fire has played havoc with many enterprises this year. It has laid down three beautiful young cities of Washington and besides ruined the business part of Vancouver. Fires are raging through wheat fields and burning up threshing outfits as well as homes and fields. The world is dry as tinder and burns like [illegible] wherever a small spark alights. Seattle, Ellensburg, Vancouver, Spokane—the tramp and the fire fiend and the evil one seem to have a match constantly in hand.

The Mountaineer has the following: "The Dalles is making rapid strides toward permanent development this summer. One of our contemporaries informs us that nearly one half a million dollars will be expended in buildings before snow flies, and these comprise such structures as a roller mill four stories high with a capacity of 100 barrels per day, an elegant brick opera house, second to none in the Inland Empire, and a large three story brick block, beside several handsome dwelling houses. If we begin the water works, complete the street railway and open the river by means of opposition boats, our glory for one year will be complete." The counties of Eastern Oregon are far from being played out, for the prosperity of the Dalles and Pendleton and other towns shows what the territory they represent is achieving. Eastern Oregon will take an enforced rest this season, in some parts, but another year will see that part of the great state of Oregon put on its strength again and be productive of wealth as heretofore.

The Harney Valley Items announces a public meeting for the purpose of talking up a joint stock company to bore an artesian well. It should not be difficult to discover permanent springs of water, deep down in the earth, in that portion of our state. The broad interior must be supplied with deep flowing earth streams that can be discovered and made available for human use. THE OREGONIAN told not long since of the subsiding of interior streams and springs and lakes, caused by the lack of winter snows as heretofore. Swan lake, a permanent body of water as was supposed, has dried up and stock in there are suffering for water. It would seem that as there are persons so constituted that they can tell, by using a wand of willow, hazel, peach, apple, pear, haw or other nut wood, where the earth currents are located, such persons should be employed as they have been in [illegible] Flat, between Walla Walla and Columbia, where a rich farming [illegible] needed water. If they succeed there as is asserted, they might do as well in the Harney region. At least it will do no harm to try and may do a great deal of good.

Lumbermen who come here from the Northwest are surprised to find a new growth of forest fir standing here that has grown in the memory of living persons. They are more surprised still when they see our immense forest trees and illimitable forests. Lumbermen though they are they do not know how to use such timber as grows in Oregon and Washington. It is asserted by the Mississippi Valley Lumberman that men engaged in timber dealing thereabouts were utterly overwhelmed with astonishment at seeing a stick of yellow fir laid down in Chicago that measured eighteen inches square and was seventy feet long. Such a stick from the Noachian deluge until now could not find time and space and soil to grow in all Wisconsin or Michigan, and it, of course, came from the Pacific Northwest. Veterans in the trade have actually made long journeys to see this stick and satisfy themselves it is not a delusion and a snare." When a Sound lumber company took a contract to furnish a bill of lumber to build a pile driver, though the measurements were not uncommon for this coast, all the quid nuncs of the lumber trade in and near Chicago refused to believe it could be done. They will have to live and learn, as the rest of us do.

A Nanaimo exchange thinks there is useless parade of deadly weapons and consequent loss of human life. Men and boys who have no real need or use for the murderous revolver carry it in their hip pockets, and suddenly they find occasion to misuse it. They would do no harm if they had no weapon to do it with. There as here law pretends to regulate the carrying of weapons, but there as here also, the law is as idle as the wind among the trees. Angry men kill and murder, and mad men do themselves to death, and foolish lads, and even women kill their best and dearest friends by mere carelessness. The world is pretty much alike, and when passions are aroused laws do not count, and "murder most foul" is done. The Nanaimo paper claims that no law is required, and that the fact of law existing spurs many irresponsible to do what the law forbids. Other people who know that there is such a law depend on the statute for their protection and find it is useless and worthless as such protection. It is a rather questionable matter if the law is not more productive of harm than of good, and many stand ready to argue that common safety and public peace would be better preserved without any statutory enactment of the kind.

The Mountaineer alludes to the prosperity of Salem in the year past. It is true that our capital city has made very decided progress which appears to any onlooker by the aspect of the place compared with the past. Everywhere are new buildings. On the business streets many new fireproof blocks have gone up and literally hundreds of new residences are scattered through the old town and in what lately were considered "suburbs." No effort has been made to attract population by advertising, and the growth of the city is natural and permanent. Oregon has many such towns that are making healthy and positive growth. We receive into Western Oregon many people who possess some means and are anxious to improve their circumstances. These were originally billed to Washington, and when they reached there and found no way of investing in productive land they came on to Western Oregon and in many instances found what they wanted. Washington has "wonderful resources," but they are beyond the present reach of the laboring man, and the people who came there on representations made find they mean future development and not present income. The best of people can't live on undeveloped resources, and most of them have no inclination to try to do so.

The charter of the Louisiana lottery is about to expire and the company that wants to renew it offers to pay off the state debt of twelve millions if the renewal can be made for a fifty years' lease of the good name and common decency of that old state. It may be that Louisiana will sell its good name to pay its debts, but the people there should protest in a solid mass against such fearful demoralization as this lottery scheme indicates. General Beauregard has had a good name, but even that is staked on this great gambling scheme, and he has no character that rises above it. No state but Louisiana tolerates such a fearful stigma on its character and antecedents. This lottery scheme is a source of general demoralization throughout the world, and scarcely a state or territory permits the open sale of these tickets within its limits. This should be reason enough why Louisiana should no longer tolerate this gambling fraud or permit the world to be swindled for its benefit. It is a blot on that state and a curse on this nation. Everywhere it goes weak-minded creatures are throwing away money needed for their families in hopes to win by the poor chance this channel affords, and it is a poor chance indeed. Every state and territory should prohibit the sale of these lottery tickets and take decided steps to defend its citizens from the selfish greed that the state of Louisiana displays.

THE PUBLIC BUILDINGS, ETC

The People to Decide the Capital Question at the Forthcoming Election—The Article on Legislative Department.

OLYMPIA, W. T., Aug. 8.—The convention met at nine, the president in the chair.

The chaplain was absent.

After the roll call all were present except as excused.

The records were read, corrected and approved.

The president presented a memorial praying for a provision in the constitution for the sale of the tide lands and the prior right to purchase them, signed by Allen C. Mason and others; tabled temporarily. Also a protest against a Sunday law from C. D. Potter, referred to the committee on miscellaneous subjects.

Hillis presented a memorial from Henry Drum and others; P. C. Sullivan, another from Otis Sprague and others; Fay, two others, signed by Stuart Rice and Harry M. Ball and others, and Stiles another signed by C. P. Masterson and others, all of the same tenor as the one submitted by the president from Allen C. Mason and others, and all were tabled temporarily.

Comegys handed in the report of the committee on federal relations, boundaries, etc., with an article establishing the boundaries of the state, tabled temporarily, and ordered printed.

Mires from the committee on water and water rights, made a report. The committee had once reported on the article. It was somewhat full of details, which had been recommitted to the committee. Now the committee reports a two line article declaring that the use of water for irrigation purposes is a public use, and stops right there. Tabled temporarily and ordered printed.

Bowen introduced a resolution directing the president to appoint a special committee of three to prepare and submit a design for the state seal; adopted.

Minor called up his resolution, printed yesterday, directing the standing committees, except the schedule and revision committees, to report on or before August 10, but found that it had never been before the convention by a ruling of the chair.

Dyer moved that unanimous consent be given, and it was given.

Power asked that the committee on tide water, etc., be exempted on account of the necessary delay while waiting for the state lands report to be disposed of.

Durie made a similar explanation, but thought it likely that the report would be made by Saturday anyway.

Griffitts opposed such exemption, so did Dyer.

The exemption was refused and the motion adopted.

Hillis was granted an indefinite leave of absence.

STATE LANDS

After Discussion the Article Thereon Is Postponed Until Tuesday.

The special order of the day, the report of the committee on state, school and granted lands, was taken up.

Suksdorf said that there had at first been a great confusion of ideas, but they now seemed to have crystalized and he believed that if all this assortment of majority and minority reports could be recommitted to the committee the reports could be consolidated and the whole matter simplified. He thought a majority report and one minority report would be the result. He moved such recommittment.

Weir said this committee had held more meetings than any other, and had agreed to disagree. He did not believe any other result would come from another reference.

McElroy moved to make this a special order for Tuesday; not in order.

Dunbar didn't believe any good would come from any further reference, and Cosgrove agreed with him.

The convention agreed with both of them.

McElroy renewed his motion, and Dyer opposed it.

Griffitts said there were five distinct reports from this committee, some of which had been laid before the members only this morning. The tide water committee's report ought to be considered in connection with this, and Browne, of Spokane, would be back Sunday night. For these reasons he hoped the postponement would be made.

Dunbar didn't see what there was in this matter that made the members want to postpone it. He wanted to go on with it.

So did Weir. So did Cosgrove, who would be willing to allow it to go over but for the fact that the chairman (Dunbar) was in ill health, and liable to have to go away any day.

McElroy meant no discourtesy, and would be willing to consider the school lands portion of the report, if it could only be separated from the tide lands part, but it couldn't, and the tide lands part ought to be considered in connection with the report of the harbor and tide-water committee which would probably establish a harbor boundary line. This was an important, probably the most important, subject before the convention, and no real time would be lost by this short postponement.

Turner agreed in this view and commented further on this "harbor view" which the harbor committee proposed to recommend, and thought there was work enough before the convention to fully occupy the intervening time. E. H. Sullivan believed there was enough work on hand to keep the convention busy until Tuesday, and so he urged postponement.

Cosgrove demanded the yaes and nays.

REVENUE AND TAXATION.

An Unsuccessful Attempt to Obtain Reconsideration.

T. M. Reed gave notice of a motion to reconsider the vote agreeing to the article on revenue and taxation, and on passing it to the third reading.

Turner's leave of absence was vacated, at his own request.

Dickey was granted leave of absence.

Griffitts moved reconsideration of the vote whereby the article on revenue and taxation was agreed to.

Comegys asked what reason there was for such action.

Griffitts didn't know of any and proposed to vote against his own motion, unless somebody showed him some.

T. M. Reed believed the convention was pretty thoroughly dissatisfied with section 4, and it was the height of folly to send out articles contradictory. He did not wish to touch any part of it except section 4.

Stiles moved to indefinitely postpone the motion to reconsider, but the chair told him he couldn't do that, but could only move to lay it on the table.

Griffitts wanted to know what effect that would have, and was told by the chair that it would tie it up so it could never be reached again.

Stiles amended his motion to conform to the chair's ruling, and then it was lost, yeas [illegible], nays 39.

Turner agreed with Reed in believing that this article as it stood, would bring ridicule upon the convention, and that section 4 was in contradiction with a preceding section.

Neither Dunbar nor Griffitts could see it in that light.

Dyer wanted to postpone the motion to reconsider until to-morrow, but the chair ruled that nothing could be done with a motion to reconsider but to adopt it at once, or lay it on the table, and in answer to Warner said only one such motion could be made.

Griffitts and Dunbar reiterated their disbelief in there being anything contradictory, as claimed by Turner. Section 1 is a general proposition and section 4 is merely a specific exemption.

Moore agreed with Turner that there was a very direct contradiction between these two sections, and he favored reconsideration. If section 4 is allowed to stand the legislature will be constantly besieged for exemptions from taxation for rolling mills, factories and many other enterprises, a great evil that can be stopped here.

P. C. Sullivan opposed reconsideration and Power favored it.

Stiles called attention to a clause in the article proposed to be enacted by the legislative committee which specially prohibits the legislature from exempting property from taxation.

Godman thought the whole discussion was out of order, but failed to secure the concurrence of the chair in his view.

Weisenburger argued at some length on whether or not there was any contradiction between these sections, and believed there was none.

Crowley opposed opening the matter and having the same old fight of yesterday to go over again.

Griffitts called for the yeas and nays. Result, no reconsideration, yeas 31, nays 34.

STATE INSTITUTIONS, ETC.

The First Section Adopted and the Second Stricken Out.

The next business in order was the report on state institutions and public buildings.

Dyer moved to go into committee of the whole on this article.

No quorum voting, it was decided—yeas 20,

IDEAL BROILING.

Broiling can be done in the oven of the Charter Oak Range or Stove with the Wire Gauze Oven Door, more perfectly than over the live coals.

Lay the steak, chops, ham or fish on a wire broiler or meat rack, placing it in an ordinary bake pan to catch the drippings.

Allow it to remain in the oven with the door closed 15 or 20 minutes. No turning is required. At the end of this time it will be found nicely cooked ready to serve.

THIS IS THE IDEAL WAY TO BROIL MEATS.

There is no taint of coal-gas or smoke, and the meats are more tender and better in flavor than those broiled over the coals. The convenience of broiling in the oven will be appreciated by every house-keeper, and adds another to the many reasons why the Charter Oak Range or Stove with the Wire Gauze Oven Door should be preferred to all others now in the market.

DON'T FAIL TO READ TO-MORROW the advertisement of W. L. DOUGLAS, [illegible]

TWO GREAT CITIES ON THE COLUMBIA.

A GLIMPSE AT THE FUTURE.

[illegible] on this map the railroads which it is Portland's opportunity to foster and build, and which are as sure [illegible] built as the sun rises and sets for another five years. Three of them are already begun. The Port Towns[illegible] & Southern, The Seattle & Southern, and The Vancouver, Klickitat & Yakima roads are all three certainties. The die is cast! The construction of the Portland and Vancouver Railroad, and the wonderful amount of [illegible] it has so suddenly developed, has settled the question. Whatever road comes from the north to cross the [illegible] will bridge at Vancouver, for the travel between that city and Portland alone will pay more than interest on its cost.

The delivery of electric power from Oregon City is destined within a year to start Portland on a career of [illegible]cturing development which must find room by absorbing all of the peninsula between the Columbia and [illegible] rivers, and covering it with work-shops, warehouses and homes.

Let the croakers croak and the mossbacks pull backward! Let the men who said the Portland and Vancouver would not pay nurse their delusions and hate enterprise! The second railroad line is already building [illegible] Portland and Vancouver, and two will pay.

North of Vancouver is the future great source of Portland's supply of timber, iron, coal, fruit and produce. [illegible] thence it will come cheapest. Through Vancouver it must come.

While Portland manufactures, Vancouver will supply raw material. Its trade and traffic will be second to [illegible]tland only.

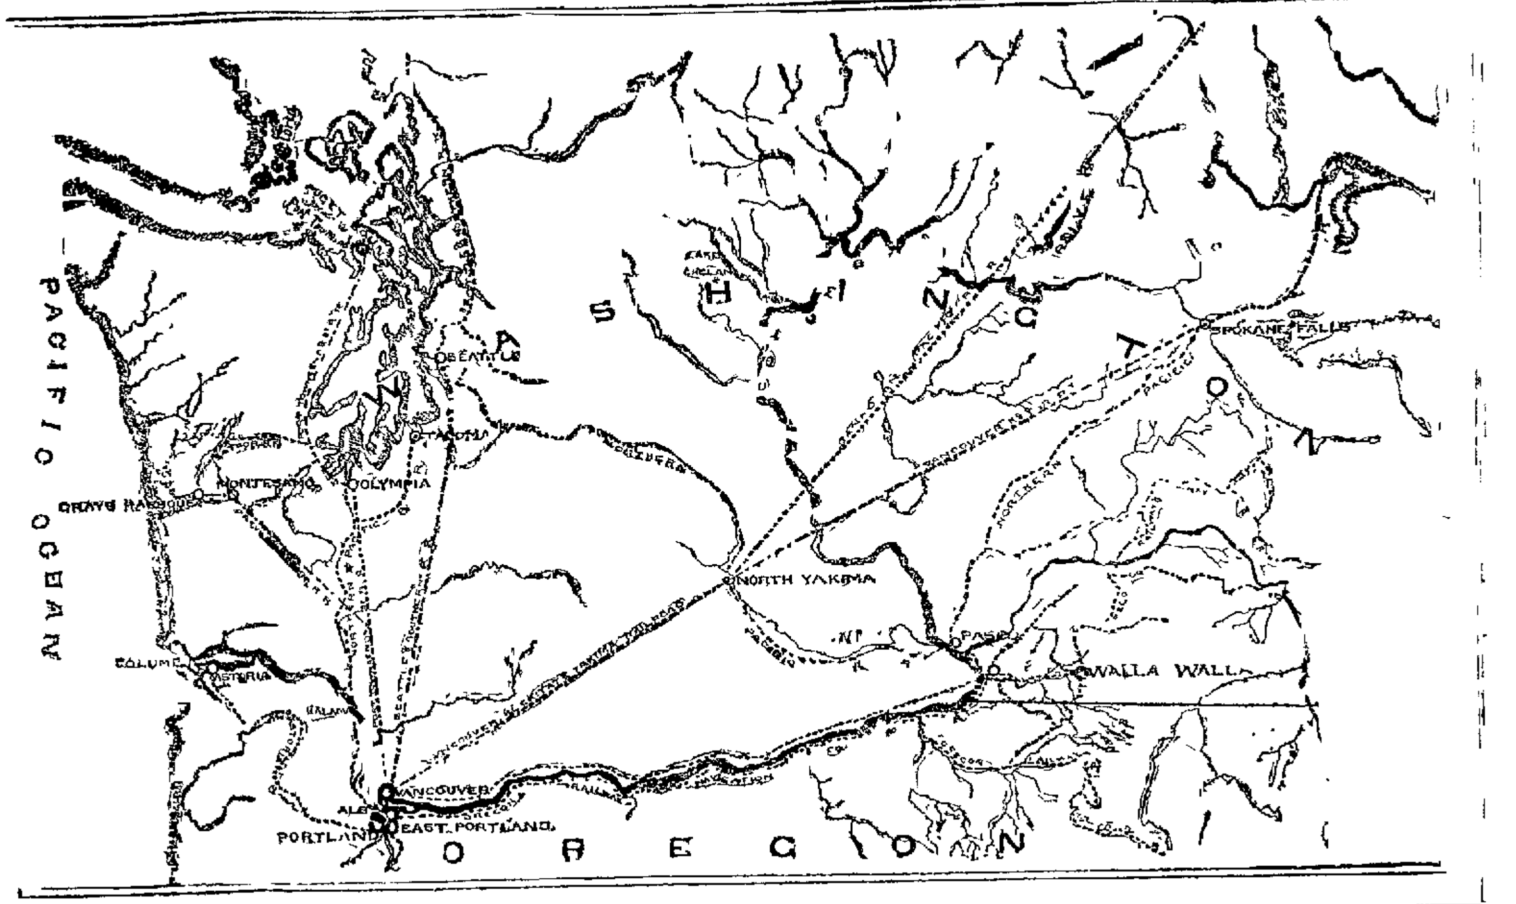
Let Tacoma, Seattle, Port Townsend and Olympia boom and grow. The larger they get, the more Portland [illegible] Vancouver will have to thrive upon.

See the situation aright. The western half of the continent divided lengthwise by the Rocky Mountains, and [illegible] western half divided again crosswise by the Columbia river, Portland and Vancouver holding the crossing. [illegible] The real heart of business for four great commonwealths. The central point of interchange and intercourse [illegible] millions of people, with great cities by the dozen building to northward and to southward.

Will Portland absorb and hold all the royal wealth of trade which will center here?

See St. Paul and Minneapolis, which have grown to one city of great proportions, across the Mississippi, on [illegible] conditions, in far smaller proportions. St. Paul was far ahead before Minneapolis was thought of. Did it hold all? No! Rather, the men who first made fortunes in the rise of lands in St. Paul made other fortunes in the rise [illegible] Minneapolis. And those who let the chance slip in St. Paul first, went over to Minneapolis and hedged successfully. So here, to-day, the second city rises at the crossing place of the Columbia.

You can't buy lots on First street, Portland, for four hundred dollars apiece, as others did a few years ago. [illegible] envy their possessors now that the lots are worth $50,000 apiece. There is another business street in the city [illegible] Vancouver, across the Columbia, where lots can now be bought for $500 which will as surely make you a fortune [illegible] these others have for their owners. Don't consider the old street perpendicular to the river. The great business thoroughfare will be parallel with it. Go, then, and buy some lots. There is a thousand chances for you to win [illegible] one to lose. Prices are too low to lose on. STEARNS & HITCHCOCK, the Real Estate Agents, will show [illegible] around and do the graceful. Office on right hand side of Main street, Vancouver.



[illegible] SIDE RIVER FRONT.

No Adequate Protection in Case of Fire.

[illegible] a Fire Boat—Both Cities Should [illegible] With Portland in This Necessary Move—Notes.

[illegible] was made of the East Portland [illegible] yesterday, from the Willamette ship [illegible] Albina line, to ascertain what fire protection [illegible] for the valuable property located [illegible] The result of the inspection is a [illegible] that there is no fire protection [illegible] were a fire once to get under [illegible] any of the buildings on the city front, [illegible] be no way to check the flames from [illegible] every direction.

[illegible] at the Albina line there is a long line [illegible] docks, extending toward the railroad [illegible] of these great docks was over [illegible] there is not the slightest protection [illegible] A fire in the Victoria would [illegible] to the Irving [illegible] blaze could not be extinguished [illegible] have been made. There is a [illegible] on top of the hill above the docks but [illegible] extending into the docks. Should [illegible] filled with grain and a fire occur [illegible] be very great. An engine could [illegible] then, and the only way they could be [illegible] of fire would be from the river [illegible] the railroad bridge is a large wharf and [illegible] The only protection these [illegible] have in case of fire would be from the [illegible] which is tied up near by with steam [illegible] Both buildings would doubtless go [illegible] fire get a good start. Long [illegible] no other building would be involved [illegible]

[illegible] large freight warehouse comes next [illegible] supply of water at the south end [illegible] cars are washed. A two inch pipe [illegible] around this warehouse connects [illegible] main on Tenth street, and there [illegible] supply of water to check a fire at [illegible] should it get under headway [illegible] be utterly inadequate. The main [illegible] must come from the river. [illegible] passenger depot and a large lot of freight [illegible] on the numerous tracks between [illegible] and the depot that would be [illegible] the warehouse should take fire.

[illegible] & Co's mammoth lumber yard and [illegible] Western Agency implement depot stand [illegible] and are without any fire protection. [illegible] splendid property should be swept [illegible] would not be less than $200,000 [illegible] and machinery must have cost [illegible] The stock on hand in the [illegible] worth $30,000. There must be more [illegible] feet of lumber in the lumber yard [illegible] the key to the whole situation [illegible] no protection to this vast property [illegible] from the river. A fire in [illegible] would sweep down the roadway south [illegible] way to check it. It would pay the [illegible] to support a fire boat to protect this [illegible] could check the fire when once [illegible] in the roadways. It would sweep up [illegible] involving in destruction the most [illegible] portion of the city.

[illegible] Box factory on Water and I streets [illegible] pipe connection with the two-[illegible] on L street. Several fires have occurred [illegible] factory, but prompt action checked [illegible] the start. The hose, although small [illegible] very effective. Of course if the fire [illegible] under headway there are no appliances [illegible] prevent the flames from spreading in [illegible] It is plain that the only success [illegible] would be from the river. The [illegible] must be taken to the river [illegible] the danger of being cut off by the [illegible] be used by taking water from the [illegible] Fourth and L streets.

[illegible] factory on Water and N, has no protection. [illegible] Should it take fire the flames [illegible] but without a fire boat [illegible] would [illegible] matter.

[illegible] cannery buildings are without protection [illegible] would certainly be destroyed [illegible] The buildings are now not occupied.

[illegible] mill seems to have considerable [illegible] A large tank stands on the grounds [illegible] than the mill, and is kept full of water [illegible] hand ready for instant service. [illegible] the building. Any ordinary fire [illegible] could be checked.

[illegible] Oil warehouses stand on the [illegible] the mill. There is small protection.

[illegible] engine could be of service at the [illegible] yard, as it could take water from the [illegible] be in danger of being cut off.

[illegible] mind that the entire city front from [illegible] is connected by elevated roadway [illegible] at no point can be reached by [illegible] without danger the question presents [illegible] protection, if any has the city from [illegible] from the appliances in the [illegible] the fire department. The city [illegible] and with that growth comes an [illegible] from fire. Only a short time ago [illegible] capitalist was heard to remark that [illegible] an extensive warehouse on the [illegible] there is no fire protection.

[illegible] to be seen that the city [illegible] the water front on the East [illegible] the river, and on a fire [illegible] Portland has taken [illegible] the matter and asks East Portland [illegible] to co-operate. A committee [illegible] to confer with the [illegible] and the matter is of sufficient [illegible] to require immediate [illegible] matter for the city council [illegible] the West side was appointed [illegible] authority of the council [illegible] regular meeting of the council [illegible] from Monday but a special [illegible] if necessary.

THOUGHT HE WAS BEING ROBBED

A Thrifty Bostonian Who Did Not Come to Portland To Be Fleeced.

A gentleman who is or rather was registered at a prominent Portland hotel approached the day clerk yesterday and asked for 5 cents worth of stamps at the same time placing his little nickle on the counter.

The clerk turned to the desk where the stamps are kept but found that the only ones he had were of the 2 cent denomination. Turning to the [illegible] he said "I am sorry sir, but I have no [illegible] stamps but here are a couple of two's," at the same time reaching for the nickle.

"No you don't —— you," cried the over thrifty [illegible] "I did not come to Portland to be robbed by the likes of you. Don't you touch that nickle [illegible] are your —— stamps."

In less time than it takes to put it in words, the clerk, who by the way is a great admirer of Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, ran around from behind the counter and one of his patent leather [illegible] kept time on the seat of the [illegible] of the man who didn't come to Portland to be [illegible]

The incident was [illegible] by quite a crowd of [illegible] with the clerk [illegible] Bostonian's efforts to [illegible] and keys to the door. It is to be hoped that he found a place where he could purchase 5 cents worth of stamps for 5 cents.

BURGLARS AGAIN AT WORK

They Enter the House of J Mitchell, but Secure Only a Small Haul

The residence of J Mitchell at the corner of Tenth and Main streets was burglarized Wednesday afternoon but owing to the early arrival of the family the burglars were frightened away before they had time to secure much booty.

The burglars evidently had been watching the house some time as they commenced operations immediately after Mrs Mitchell left—about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. They placed a ladder against the back end of the house and entered through a second story window.

Once inside they turned everything upside down. They rummaged through all the bureau drawers and even took the mattresses out of the beds in the hopes of finding some money. Mr Mitchell's daughter returned to the house a little [illegible] and the burglars concluded it was about time to go although they had not made much of a haul. The rooms presented a scene of chaotic confusion. Everything was out of place and things were scattered promiscuously over the floor. Nothing was found missing however except a small [illegible] and six or seven Mexican [illegible] bearing the initials A. C. A small bureau [illegible] containing about $60 in silver was accidentally overlooked.

FLASHES OF THE FOOTLIGHTS.

"The Paymaster" at New Park Theater—"A Parlor Match"—"The Moonshiners"—Dr. Talmage

There was a decided increase in the size of the audience to witness "The Paymaster" last evening, and yet not so large as it was hoped it would be. The play was given with all that finish which makes the performance such an enjoyable one, and has made of it such a dramatic success.

Duncan B Harrison, as Robert O'Connor, the falsely accused "Paymaster," nightly impresses his audience with the quiet force of his acting. The leaps from the prison window and from the bank of the river into the river of real water never fail of repeated encores. The humor of John P Ward's unctuous Larry becomes more apparent the oftener he is seen, while Charles Thornton's Captain Hammersley, Thomas A Wise's dual impersonation of Fitzgerald and Captain Harding, Neil O'Brien's Sergeant Up on as well as Annie Allisten's Mrs. Wm. J. Beatrice Leib's Ethel and Keith Hamilton's Nellie O'Connor, all contribute to make a most excellent cast.

"The Paymaster" again to night.

CORDRAY'S MUSEE THEATER.—"The Moonshiners" continues its drawing power nightly and the Misses Essie and Minnie Tittel keep their hold upon the popular favor. In the role of Sincerity Weeks Miss Tittel has an opportunity to show her terpsichorean powers in the dance which is introduced in the first act, as well as to deal with a dialect which she has never tried before. That she has both successfully the large audiences nightly testify. All the company included are doing their work so faithfully that the result is a commendably smooth performance.

The exhibition of the remarkably intelligent pigeons and cockatoos by Mlle. Garetta is the great feature of the musee performance although the Blacks, John J and Lillie and Burns & [illegible] add their share to this portion of the entertainment. The Moonshiners to night.

NEW ZOO AND MINSTREL COMPANY.—The combination of Winston & Harrington's new zoo and the McKanless Minstrel Company again showed to a large house last night. The [illegible] are a strong attraction while the specialty performance of the minstrel company continues to please large audiences.

A PARLOR MATCH.—Beginning next Monday night Evans & Hoey, the cleverest of comedians, will produce their side-splitting farce comedy which has made the whole continent laugh. It seems almost unnecessary to praise these actors who are known as the kings of fun makers throughout the country and the following notice from the Boston Globe will speak for them:

There was an immense audience at the Park theater last night to greet the return of that wonderfully successful production of Mr Hoyt's "A Parlor Match," and to witness its interpretation by the well known comedians Evans & Hoey. And every one went away with much added to the good cheer which is supposed to reign at the Christmastide, for if there was ever an audience pleased last night's assembly certainly was. The fun in "A Parlor Match" is of such a sort that the spectator does not have to tickle himself to laugh, as the mirth will come without. For genuine amusement this piece is unexcelled. While not aspiring to the plane of legitimate comedy, it is one of those plays that makes the audience think they have received more than they paid for in fun.

The methods of Evans and Hoey are nothing if not original and [illegible] into [illegible] delight. These peculiar and quaint comedians have no peers in the line [illegible] other two can force the mirth they do. "A Parlor Match" affords them every advantage in the way of material, dialogue and situations for their work. They understand each other thoroughly and so work together beautifully. With them unlike causes produce the same results for they work on entirely different lines. Those who have seen them know the result; those who have not should see them at once. The whole company is composed of true artists and this [illegible] is a charm to the production. Pretty Minnie [illegible] captured the audience [illegible] and he [illegible] Kidd [illegible] The [illegible] materializing seance in the second act were new and particularly delightful and the [illegible] spirits that came forth called out immense applause.

REV DR TALMAGE.—Speaking of Rev. Dr. Talmage who is very shortly to appear at New Park theater [illegible] Lake Maxinkuckee, Marshall, Ind., July [illegible], to the Chicago Herald says:

About twenty thousand people to-day heard Rev T De Witt Talmage's sermon at this place. The railroad facilities were insufficient to accommodate the crowd [illegible] every station on the roads from Chicago, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, St Louis and other points. People came by fifteen special trains, as well as by steamboats and carriages. The preacher discoursed on "How to Conquer the Devils of This Life." He also dedicated the great amphitheatre. [illegible] Monday he leaves Minnesota on his tour to Oregon.

This noted pulpit orator and lecturer will [illegible] here shortly [illegible] in Portland. His subject will be "Big Blunders."

LOCOMOTIVE NO 23

The Engine Which Was Ditched at Albany Junction View of the Wreck

[illegible] of Engine No [illegible] at Albany Junction [illegible] It is the [illegible] resulted in [illegible] fireman Quint [illegible] the fatal [illegible] telegraphic [illegible] pilot [illegible] railroad parlance [illegible] stack [illegible] smashed and battered [illegible] broken and [illegible] torn away. The tender was completely capsized while the [illegible] was almost totally demolished. How Engineer Miller [illegible] instant and awful death seems really wonderful.

By the capsizing of the tender the water was allowed to escape [illegible] running out, fairly [illegible] the engineer and fireman and no doubt [illegible] them from being literally cooked by the steam. The steam which fatally scalded the two men all escaped from the lubricating pipe. This is a small pipe no larger than a man's finger. In the jam and smash which followed the engine, when she leaped from the track, the end of the lubricating pipe was snapped off like a brittle pipestem, just in front of where the engineer sits. As it connects with the boiler the steam came pouring out, and scalding the two men shockingly. Both were extricated from their position of peril as quickly as possible, but not quick enough to escape fatal injuries.

It is very doubtful if the engineer saw the misplaced switch at all, or knew there was any danger ahead until the engine had jumped the track. The switch was on the fireman's side and just at that moment Guthrie was probably looking after the fire. The train was nearly an hour behind time, and was probably running at the rate of forty miles an hour at the time of the accident.

The disabled engine was brought to the East Side car shops, and is now being overhauled and repaired. The damages are not as extensive as were at first supposed. "No 23," notwithstanding her rough experience, will probably soon be on the road doing service again.

A FEW DRUNKS AND DISORDERLIES.

Judge Tanner's Grist in the Police Court Yesterday Afternoon

George Long, Marcus Clarke and Charles Buckhouse, charged with drunkenness were fined $5 each. Larry McCue and P J Ryan, drunk, $10 each. Mrs. Armstrong, same charge, ten days. William Lund, disorderly conduct, $20. Dan Gafney, trespassing, ten days. See Kee, a Chinaman charged with making a disturbance on the streets, was fined $10.

F Van Kroenenbrook, the Belgian, arrested on a charge of beating his wife, gave a very poor excuse for his inhuman conduct. Mrs. Kroenenbrook stated that her husband, who has been in the habit of coming home drunk every night, has been beating and abusing her ever since they came to this city some weeks ago. In these allegations she was borne out by her two sons aged 15 and 10 years, who corroborated her testimony in every detail.

The defendant being placed on the stand denied that he had ever struck his wife. He admitted throwing her out of the house but claimed that it was done because she had been drinking beer with other men. To Captain Cardwell the defendant made the statement that he struck his wife because it was the style in the old country.

The court fined Kroenenbrook $50.

ON A WAR PATH IN A CELL

Mrs Reardon, Armed With a Knife and Bottle Pursues One of Her Jail Companions

A woman's [illegible] shrieks in one of the cells in the upper corridor of the city jail yesterday evening caused people passing on the street below to think that a bloody murder was being committed. Officers [illegible] upstairs and saw that the screams issued from the cell occupied by Mrs. Reardon, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Minnie Long, the two former serving a term for drunkenness and the latter for vagrancy. On opening the door the Long woman was found standing on [illegible] in a state of complete exhaustion while the other two stood by in a flutter of excitement. Mrs. Long said that Mrs. Reardon armed with a knife and a bottle, had chased her all over the room in an attempt to kill her. She had dodged round chairs over the bed and all over the room in her efforts to keep out of Mrs. Reardon's way. Mrs. Armstrong tried to stop Mrs. Reardon but without avail.

The officer took the belligerent Mrs. Reardon out of the room and put her in a cell by herself. She had been given a brief leave of absence to buy some eatables and a tin pail of coffee and had found time to fill up on bad whisky.

MANY MILES OF NEW STREETS

Facts and Figures That Prove That Portland's Going Ahead

There has never been a time in the history of the city when there have been so many petitions for street improvements as were presented to the council Wednesday night. Between fifteen and twenty were read calling for the improvement of ten or fifteen miles of streets. Besides, the council has a large number of similar petitions under consideration and there is a great deal of street work under way.

All this shows that Portland is growing and that the people are prospering and want improvements. Wednesday night the council passed eight or ten street improvement ordinances. The proposed improvement of North Front street from [illegible] to the O R & N boat yard will cover a distance of one and three quarter miles and that of S street one mile. It is estimated that during 1889 the city will have spent $300,000 for street work, and $[illegible]00,000 for new sewers.

ASTORIA.

A Mistake Made by Tourists and Others Who Visit Her.

ASTORIA, August 5, 1889.

During my sojourn in the city by the sea, I have observed the movements of the sightseers, and others on business as they flitted past this city or dodged into it and out having seen nothing but its long dingy lines of wharves, canneries and sawmills, and the usual jumble of shops, saloons, broken and incomplete streets undergoing repairs, etc., the result of which is frequently wrong impressions and erroneous ideas of what is here. Tourists spend about all their time in other parts of the west, among scenes with which they are often familiar at home, leaving but a small fraction of time, sometimes not more than half an hour to one of the most important points of interest and beauty in the great northwest. It is not necessary to spend days and weeks to see what there is here of interest, but even that may be done profitably by those who have leisure, by excursions up the numerous little rivers among the evergreen hills and overhanging trees, shrubs and vines that line their banks. One half hour's walk either with or without a guide will lead the tourist to elevations from which he can take in the whole situation.

Before him for three miles up and down the bay with its wharves, its canneries, its churches and schoolhouses and public buildings and business houses and fine residences and street railways and shipping backed by emerald hills and fronted by the most beautiful sheet of water to be found anywhere, lies the oldest, the solidest and the most hopeful city of the Northwest. From this same point one of the most pleasing grand and beautiful land and waterscapes ever witnessed in any country may be seen.

To the east and north and west bordered by the blue hills and mountains of Washington stretches for miles the shimmering water of the broad Columbia [illegible] by sail and steam and fowl and human life.

To the immediate west and south lies Youngs bay with its silvery streams flowing in from among the green hills and dreamy billowy mountains in the distance. Long stretches of islands low sandhills and green meadows in the distance west separate from these placid waters [illegible] with its white winged ships and long lines of black smoke [illegible] the location of steamers going forth or turning to port. No tourist or man of business connected with the future of Astoria can afford to miss this scene—one of the most sublime in nature.

Nor is this all. From this same point with one sweep of the eye may be seen twenty miles of shore line belonging to Astoria and all within five or six miles of the point upon which the beholder stands, and most of which lies at his very feet, capable of accommodating any amount of shipping and manufacturing that may ever be required. To these shore lines comes from the vast rich interior one of the grandest rivers in the world. From these shore lines goes out almost without obstruction into the great open sea a channel capable of accommodating the ships of the nations.

As one stands on this eminence amidst these incomparable surroundings and thinks of the great undeveloped resources of the regions west of the Rocky mountains he instinctively feels that he is standing on the site of one of the greatest future cities of the west. It may truly be said that from these heights may be seen the "kingdoms of the world" in its commerce.

I repeat that he who contents himself with a short line view of Astoria makes a mistake and does both Astoria and himself a great injustice.

W. HAMPTON SMITH.

THE GULF STREAM.

Results of the Observations of the United States Coast Survey.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—A local paper prints an interview with W. S. Howard, who was three years on the United States coast survey steamer Blake, commanded by Lieutenant Pilsbury.

Howard says that for two years the Gulf stream was observed and traced, and that it was definitely ascertained to originate at a place between Fowey Rocks, a ledge in the Atlantic, off the South extremity of Florida, and Gun Key on the Bahama coast. The steamer was anchored at this point, and the study of the Gulf stream was begun there. The stream was found to vary daily in velocity, the difference being equal to two and one-half knots an hour. The current was affected by the moon, and the greatest strength of the current was an hour or two after the declination of the moon.

The steamer anchored at twenty six stations to observe the Gulf stream and upwards of 1500 observations were taken. Two meters were used at one time, by which the velocity of the surface and the subsurface was simultaneously noted. The surface current runs with much greater velocity than the subsurface.

The true axis or beginning of the stream is eleven and a half miles east of Fowey Rocks lighthouse. Here the strongest surface current found was five and one-fourth knots an hour and the weakest three and one-fourth. There is a depth of 495 fathoms. Water soundings brought to light no explanation of the mysterious origin of the stream.

The deductions from the observations are that the trade winds and the Mississippi river may be dismissed as the probable creator of the current and that the velocity of the current is positively controlled by the declination of the moon.

TASCOTT, THE MURDERER.

A Man Arrested in Texas Who Is Supposed To Be the Fugitive.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—A special from Laredo, Texas, gives a description of the Tascott suspect under arrest there, which tallies more closely with that of the much sought for fugitive than that of any previous capture. The prisoner's appearance corresponds exactly with the description contained in the circular issued by the relatives of Snell, the millionaire for whose murder Tascott is now wanted. The scars on his elbows and legs have counterparts on the Laredo man, and although there is no gold in the prisoner's front tooth a cavity which had once been filled is there.

The arrest grew out of the suspect knocking at the sheriff's residence and asking for something to eat. The sheriff noticed the similarity to Tascott's description and after questioning the young man subsequently put him under arrest. The prisoner was induced to write a few words and his handwriting strongly resembled the fac-simile of Tascott's chirography. The sheriff has forwarded a photograph of the prisoner to Chicago.

A NARROW ESCAPE

A Modesto Youth Attempts to Kill a Local Editor

MODESTO, Cal., Aug. 8.—George Brown, son of T. C. Brown, chairman of the board of supervisors, went to the Herald office this morning, and after procuring a copy of the paper asked S. L. Hanscom, the editor, if he was the author of an article reflecting upon the young man's father. Hanscom answered yes. Then Brown pulled a pistol and aimed at Hanscom's head. Hanscom struck the pistol, when it exploded, the bullet going through the ceiling after grazing Hanscom's face. The editor immediately drew his own pistol and a scuffle ensued until the arrival of the officers and others.

Brown was intoxicated at the time. He was taken to the county jail.

FLYING THE DRAGON FLAG

A Chinese Junk Refused Admittance at the Port of Ensenada.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 8.—A junk flying the dragon flag put in to Ensenada with a cargo of Abalone meat and shells recently, but as the flag of China is not recognized on the high seas by the republic of Mexico she was refused entry by the port officials. The vessel had sailed from San Francisco with the proper clearance papers, being the first one sent down by the Chinese capitalists who recently bought a half interest in the Lower California Mining Company.

CONSUMPTION!

(PHTHISIS.)

Fifty Thousand People Die Annually From It.

"IN THE MIDST OF LIFE WE ARE IN DEATH"

A Whole Army Picked from the Choicest.

At the head of diseases of our climate stands consumption—at their head—both as it respects prevalence and fatality. Smallpox, yellow fever and cholera are terrible in their visitations, but what are all their aggregated slaughters compared with the ceaseless, silent march of this fell disease, which steals away in their fresh prime the brightest and the best? It is ascertained on good authority that from 50,000 to 60,000 die annually from consumption. What an army! Picked from the choicest! All sundered from life untimely and leaving more blight and sorrow behind than would perhaps twice or thrice the number whom any other pestilence would have selected. The magnitude of the evil places the question of the remedy before all others that pertain to the healing art.

Catarrh is often the forerunner of consumption. The symptoms of a patient suffering from catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes are the symptoms of consumption in its early stages. It has been part of the faith of the medical profession as well as a universal popular belief that neither catarrh nor consumption could be cured.

The Drs. Darrin have proved by their system of electro-magnetic treatment that catarrh can be cured and also consumption in its early stages. They have the secret of the new cure for consumption by rectal injection now being practiced in many prominent hospitals with great success and is pronounced by the most eminent medical authorities as the only cure known.

As catarrh is most always its first and earliest symptom, and is the chief cause of asthma, bronchitis and deafness and also produces serious results in the senses of smell, hearing, sight or taste, it should never, under any circumstances, be neglected as it is the most treacherous and insidious of all diseases, and never cures itself, but grows worse.

The Drs. Darrin have saved hundreds of lives threatened of early grave by this dreaded disease. The following are a few

EXTRACTS OF TESTIMONIALS.

B F Stout, Independence, W. T.—Deafness, catarrh and consumption cured.

E Anderson, Salem, Or.—Catarrh seven years cured.

Wm Hunter, Eugene City, Or.—Catarrh twenty years restored.

Volua Webster, Weston, Umatilla county, Or.—Catarrh, cured.

Mrs L Mattoon, East Portland, Or.—Catarrh, bronchitis, nervousness and sleepless nights and loss of flesh cured and gained twelve pounds.

Frederick Mohs, Sprague, W. T.—Catarrh and bronchitis, general debility, etc., cured. His wife cured also of dropsy and varicose veins, milk leg and running sore.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, AUG. 9.

WHAT IS A CLOSED SEA?

The Behring sea controversy has assumed such grave importance in the minds of public officials and private citizens alike, that it is worth while to supplement the history of the case, as published yesterday, by a [illegible] statement of the position of both parties, Canada and the United States.

Our government holds that our purchase of Alaska carried with it the exclusive jurisdiction over Behring sea, claiming this body of water as mare clausum, or a closed sea, ceded to us by Russia, and therefore as completely under the dominion of the United States as Hudson's bay is of Canada. Our statute passed by congress last winter rests upon our alleged right to exercise the same control over the waters of Behring sea that we do over the main land of Alaska.

The Canadians, on the other hand, assert that Behring sea is not and never has been regarded as an inland or land-locked sea, like Hudson's bay, but is the northern part of the Pacific ocean and belongs to the high seas over which international law gives no exclusive jurisdiction to any nation. The Canadians fairly quote, in support of their view, the definition given by Vattel of an inland or land-locked sea, which "must be entirely surrounded by the territory of the nation claiming jurisdiction, and must have no other communication with the ocean than by a channel of which that nation may take possession."

The Canadians say that while this definition describes Hudson's bay it does not describe Behring sea, which is not surrounded by our territory, and is connected with the Pacific by wide channels. Canada denies that the United States therefore is entitled to exclusive control of the waters of Behring sea outside the prescribed three-mile limit from our coasts.

The question for settlement, therefore, is whether Behring sea is part of the high seas. On this point the most eminent geographers of the world are against the view of our government. The able author of an open letter to the New York Sun says on this point:

> The pre-eminence of the Germans in geographical science is admitted, and it is believed that without exception they regard Behring sea as a part of the Pacific. The same may be said of the best cyclopædias. Brockhaus's Conversations Lexikon, of which a new edition has recently been published, says the Pacific is connected with the Arctic ocean by Behring strait. Our own chief encyclopædia, in its description of Behring sea, says it is "that part of the Pacific ocean which lies immediately south of Behring strait." A recent newspaper communication by Professor Dall, an American writer, upon Alaska, shows conclusively that he regards Behring sea as the northern extension of the Pacific. Mr. Robert Rayner, who has recently written a notable article on the Behring sea question, addressed a letter to Dr. H. Supan, who is widely regarded as the most eminent of living geographers, asking his opinion. The editor of Petermann's Mittheilungen replied that "all geographers consider Behring sea as a part of the Pacific."

To a mind of fair historical and geographical intelligence, it is not easy to understand why, if Behring sea can be claimed as a closed sea by the United States Russia might not say to Sweden and to Germany that the Baltic was a closed sea; for Behring sea washes Russian territory on the west, just as the Baltic does Sweden.

The Black sea even, which has no other communication with the ocean than by a channel held by Turkey, is not a closed sea in the sense of Behring sea. It is no more a sea under the exclusive jurisdiction of one power than the Mediterranean, the Red sea, or the Persian gulf. England holds Gibraltar; owns the Suez canal; holds Aden, at the mouth of the straits of the Red sea, and holds a formidable position on the straits of Ormuz, but these are held as points of military or naval advantage.

In the sense that we claim Behring sea as a closed sea, we are not likely to be sustained by international arbitration, for no such great body of water of similar geographical situation is treated as a closed sea in the world to-day. Hudson's bay is entirely within Canadian territory, and fills the definition of "a closed sea" in all respects. Furthermore, so long as Russia owned Alaska, we never admitted that Behring was a closed sea, and we cannot afford to claim it without granting all that Canada claims in the fisheries dispute on the Atlantic seaboard.

TO PUNISH DRUNKENNESS.

The custom of laying the blame of drunkenness upon the vendor to the almost if not the entire exculpation of the consumer of liquor is a growth of sentiment that had its foundation in the desire to avoid personal responsibility for the sins of appetite. Coddling has made this sentiment strong among temperance workers of a certain type, whose overflowing pity for the drinking man is only exceeded by their detestation for the man who sells the grog. In view of this somewhat common state of public feeling some interest is aroused by the fact that the municipality of Minneapolis has flown in the face of custom by actually passing a law that establishes a penalty for drunkenness. This law provides that whoever becomes drunk by voluntarily drinking intoxicating liquors shall be deemed guilty of the crime of drunkenness and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as follows: For the first offense a fine of not less than $10 or more than $40, or by imprisonment not less than ten or more than forty days; for the second, imprisonment for not less than ten nor more than sixty days, or by a fine of not less than $20 or more than $50; for the third and all subsequent offenses by imprisonment not less than ninety days. The city also has a high license law and the public generally will look with interest for the result of a system, that while it proposes to restrict the sale of liquors to comparatively responsible persons holds the other party to the sin of drunkenness to an accountability for his individual act. Whether the law results beneficially or not it is certain that if drunkenness is a crime the man who drinks is not the innocent victim of the saloonkeeper's wiles, which pathetic prohibition orators would have the public believe. There is an individual responsibility in the matter that should be recognized and insisted upon for the sake of simple justice if for nothing else.

A NARROW SPIRIT.

A noble monument, erected at Plymouth, is America's tribute to the Puritan pilgrims. The historical event of the colonial settlement of 1620 was marked by a celebration of national importance. The Pilgrim Society, having the matter in charge, selected Congressman Breckenridge, of Kentucky, as the orator, and John Boyle O'Reilly as the poet of the occasion. The New York Independent adversely criticises the choosing of these gentlemen, and has in turn itself suffered rebuke from many of the liberal newspapers throughout the country.

The Independent, in this instance, has evinced a narrow spirit. It is true the orator is a reconstructed rebel, but he is a scholar and a gentleman. There is no reason why he should not have been able to do justice to the memory of the pilgrim pioneers, and the lofty and patriotic tone that marked the oration showed that he held the early history of these New Englanders in as sacred esteem as could possibly the proudest son of New England. He showed that the founders of the nation laid a narrow corner-stone for the structure of their colonial government, but the result broadened into no mere theoretical but an actual separation of church and state. True, in his oratorical effort Mr. Breckenridge exercised the cold philosophical and historical spirit rather than that of the dreaming enthusiast, but the people of New England should wish to know the truth about their ancestors, rather than to have listened to a flow of [illegible] flattery that the student of history realizes is undeserved.

The poet, John Boyle O'Reilly, represented the culture and learning of the naturalized American, and he attained a high degree of poetic fervor in his song to the pilgrim fathers. His closing lines are entirely worthy of history:

O People's Voice! when farthest thrones shall hear;
When teachers own; when the [illegible] rabbles know:
When artist minds in world-wide symbol show;
When serfs and soldiers their mute faces raise;
When priests on grand cathedral altars praise;
When pride and arrogance shall disappear:
The Pilgrim's Vision is accomplished here!

Great changes have swept over the country since the pilgrims landed on these shores. The spirit which their exile gave birth has developed beyond their conceptions. They were fearless men yet narrow-minded, and in many senses bigoted. Yet they are to be commended because they followed the truth as it appeared to them, and were willing to die for it. The highest reverence that the American can pay to the memory of these fearless Puritans is to extend the spirit underlying their actions, namely, the unconquerable desire for human freedom. The nation at large has no reason to share the narrow spirit of the Independent. Both orator and poet were inspired by true American sentiment, and represented the conservative spirit of the age.

THE CASE OF CHEE GONG.

Additional evidence in the case of Chee Gong is presented in affidavits, copies of which are published in THE OREGONIAN this morning. These affidavits were made yesterday afternoon, and were placed in the hands of Governor Pennoyer last evening. Counsel for the prisoner asks that a respite be granted until these affidavits can be laid before Judge Stearns, who is now away upon his annual vacation. Here is a case in which the governor can act with perfect propriety. A respite is not a pardon or even a commutation. It is a power placed in the hands of the executive officer of the state by which he may be enabled to see that no injustice is done. This evidence, while it is that of Chinamen, is still entitled to the consideration of a court. To obtain that consideration Governor Pennoyer must this morning grant to Chee Gong a few days more of life. If, at the expiration of that time, Judge Stearns refuses to grant a new trial on the ground that this new evidence is immaterial, the execution will then take place. No injury can be done to the interests of justice by granting a respite, and as THE OREGONIAN has heretofore said, it is better that a guilty man should escape than that an innocent man should be hung.

The public desire for the purchase of a fire boat for the city of Portland increases rather than diminishes. We have been in constant receipt of communications upon the subject and one from Mr. S. J. Mayo, an old fireman, is full of valuable suggestions. He advocates a stern-wheel boat such as in use at New Orleans, which has proved of valuable service in her harbor. It is something that Portland must have and with as little delay as possible. With it and two additional engines, the merchants would secure lower rates from the insurance companies. We published yesterday the names of one hundred of the most prominent firms in Portland, attached to a petition asking the council for a fire boat. The mayor of the city has appointed an efficient committee to report upon the matter.

Mr. Joseph Simon says that he has no time to attend to the details of the office of police commissioner, hence unlimited and unquestioned power is given to the chief of police in the matter of making removals, appointments, etc. The unsophisticated citizen, who cherishes the idea that the police department is maintained for the purpose of affording protection to the public, proves how long a lesson in simplicity he has to unlearn by wondering why, if Commissioner Simon really has no time to attend to the duties of the office, he holds on to it with such eager persistence, and why, indeed, a board of police commissioners is necessary if the chief can create and control the force without the assistance of that body.

The list of those who suffered by the Spokane Falls fire gives an idea of the interests that were involved in the two hours' conflict with the flames, last Sunday, that even figures could not furnish. It shows the diversity of business that made the phenomenal city of Washington territory wealthy and prosperous before it had completed its first decade of existence. The spirit of Northwestern energy and determination that built the city once is already at work re-creating it, and in a few months even the scars of its recent calamity will be obliterated. The experience a people gains by a disaster of this kind is valuable, though $10,000,000 is a pretty good price to pay for it.

Wonders will never cease. The Chicago police, with the aid of outside detective force and the extradition law, has succeeded in landing Burke, the Cronin suspect, in jail in that city. A censorious world stands rebuked in the presence of this unexpected feat, not knowing whether to apologize or to doubt the identity of the man. It does not seem possible, under the circumstances, that the guardians of Chicago's slumbers have committed the grave blunder of catching the right man.

The "melancholy days" come earlier some years than others. The people of this city had no idea that fall was so near until the heads of three policemen dropped into the basket. It behooves the remainder of the force to get in their winter's wood and be prepared for a season of unexpected severity. The chief is autocrat, and is able to smile and smile and send subordinates to the block, scorning to give a reason.

It has been decided by the Washington republican central committee to hold its convention for the nomination of a state ticket at Walla Walla, on September 4. A large number of aspiring politicians are in the field, all ready and willing to serve the new state, and the contest for office will be interesting, to say the least. The delegates will number 293.

Fervent prayer was offered in the constitutional convention at Olympia Tuesday for the people of stricken Spokane Falls. Potatoes, bacon and flour were among the more material things that were offered elsewhere.

UNITED STATES MARSHAL'S NOTICE [illegible] maritime seizure. The "City of Salem." [illegible] States of America, District of Oregon, [illegible] a libel hath been filed in the district court of the United States for the district of Oregon, [illegible] day of August, 1889, by Mr. Paul R. Deady, proctor, on behalf of M. Reno and L. Reno, partners as Reno & Co., in a cause of contract, civil and maritime, against the vessel "City of Salem," her tackle, apparel and furniture, and praying the usual process and monition of the court that all persons interested in said vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, may be cited to appear and answer the premises, and all due proceedings being had, that the said vessel may be decreed to be sold, and the proceeds thereof distributed according to law. Therefore, in pursuance of the monition under the seal of the said court to me directed and delivered, on the first day of August, A. D. 1889, I do hereby give notice generally unto all persons having or pretending to have any right, title or interest in the said vessel, called the "City of Salem," her tackle, apparel and furniture, to appear before the said court, in the city of Portland, in said district, on the second day of September, 1889, if the same be a court day, or else on the next court day thereafter, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, then and there to answer the said libel, and to make known their allegations in that behalf.
Dated at Portland, in said district, this [illegible] day of August, A. D. 1889. JOHN MYERS, United States Marshal for the District of Oregon.
PAUL R. DEADY, Proctor for Libelants.

PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

THE BALDWIN LODGING HOUSE FIRE.—Mrs. [illegible], the proprietress of the Baldwin lodging house, which was partially destroyed by fire Wednesday morning, is strongly of the opinion that the fire was the work of an incendiary. She says the first intimation she had of it was the crash of glass, and then came the smoke and flames. She is at an utter loss to know how the fire originated, if the premises were not ignited by an incendiary. As to her loss she claims that not less than $1000 would cover the actual damages sustained. Seven rooms containing furniture were badly damaged by fire, smoke and water. Her insurance protection amounted to only a few hundred dollars. She claims that much injustice was done her in the published statement of the fire. Whatever the house might have been prior to her tenancy, [illegible] the owner, she says she is endeavoring to the best of her ability to keep a reputable place.

THE CITY OF VANCOUVER is now a great deal nearer Portland, in time if not in distance, than it was before the construction of the P. & V. Railway. It has also taken a new lease of life and is growing rapidly. It has half a mile of busy water front now, where hundreds of men are employed, in contrast with the old government wharf a year ago, where the only disturbance was the daily arrival of two or three steamboats. The vast acreage of land and forest north of Vancouver are beginning to pour their treasures into its lap. [illegible] a prominent real estate man yesterday, "it will be only a few years till Vancouver will be to Portland what Oakland is to San Francisco, a good second." It is a fact not generally known in Portland that ten large brick stores are now in process of erection in that city, five of them by ex-United States Attorney-General Williams.

ENJOINING THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.—Agnes Reid [illegible] suit against the Metropolitan Railway Company in the state circuit court yesterday to restrain it from building its electric [illegible] Connecticut street, in Southern Portland. Mrs. Reid claims that the dedicators of Southern Portland, of whom she was one, reserved [illegible] of building railways through their [illegible], and the construction of the Metropolitan [illegible] along Connecticut street would damage the property without compensating the owners. The company claim that the injunction suit will not cause the least delay in the work, or suspension of the operation of construction.

REPAIR YOUR SIDEWALKS.—Street Superintendent Chapman will be kept busy for some time to come. Next week he expects to issue between 500 and 600 notices to property owners requiring them to improve bad sidewalks. This is not such an easy task as it looks. First of all the superintendent must locate the sidewalk needing repairs, after which he must consult the map and find out the number of the lot and block which abut upon it. Next, it is necessary to look up the records and get the name of the owner of the property. Then he draws up the notice, makes a copy of it for proof of service, and, last of all, he hunts up the owner of the property to serve him.

WHERE IS V. MOTT COLE?—Mr. Horace Vinton, the well known actor who visited this city several years ago, a member of the Rose Eytinge Company, writes a letter to Manager J. P. Howe, under date of New York, July 3, in which he makes inquiries concerning the whereabouts of a Mr. V. Mott Cole. This missing person, when last heard from, was in Portland. Mr. Vinton writes that Mr. R. F. Cole, a brother of the missing person, is very anxious to receive tidings from him. If this paragraph should meet the eye of V. Mott Cole, he will understand that he is being very anxiously inquired after.

A SINGULAR CASE.—Mrs. Nelson, the woman who fell down a stairway in the Grand Central hotel July 10, has so far recovered that she was yesterday sent to her home near Salem. Mrs. Nelson had concussion of the brain, and was unconscious for three weeks. Since then she has been steadily improving. Dr. R. R. Miller, the physician in attendance, says that it is one of the most interesting and peculiar cases that have come to his knowledge since he commenced his practice in the medical profession. It is very rarely that such injuries result so successfully.

RECOVERED THIRTY YEARS.—In 1857 J. L. [illegible] lost on his farm in Benton county, near Corvallis, a gold locket, with his initials marked on the inside, "J. L. B., 1857." On Tuesday of this week he received a letter from the present owner of the farm, a Mr. Howard, a perfect stranger to him, stating that he had plowed up in his garden a gold locket, with the initials "J. L. B., 1857," on the inside, and learning that Mr. B[illegible] was owner of the farm about that time, wrote a letter informing him of the fact, and [illegible] would send it to him.

DIRECTORY OF CHARITIES.—[illegible] Secretary W. G. Steel, of the City Board of Charities, is preparing a directory of all charitable institutions and churches in the city. The names of all officers, directors and trustees of each organization will be given, and the publication is intended for a handy manual of reference. [illegible] are to be found in all of the larger Eastern cities. It will be a complete compendium of all useful information pertaining to benevolent and charitable institutions.

TO HEAT THE COURT HOUSE.—Yesterday the county court opened bids for the heating of the court house, as follows: Robert Brady, $[illegible]; Church & Lawson, $4678; J. F. Shea, $[illegible]; William Gardner & Co., $[illegible]. The contract was awarded to the last named firm. The Webb Safe and Lock Company and the Wilshire Safe and Lock Company each tendered a bid of $[illegible] for making the door of the new vault of the county clerk. The contract was not awarded.

THE LAST FREE CONCERT.—The Mount Tabor motor line has a large force of men at work laying double track from Sunnyside to the summit, and are making decided improvements at the station on top of the mountain to accommodate visitors. The Marine band will close their series of concerts there to-morrow night, and will render a thoroughly classical programme. A four mile moonlight ride for 10 cents with free concert by the band is certainly very cheap.

HE WANTS HIS MONKEY.—An old Italian, living near Fifth and Clay streets, came to the police station yesterday afternoon in dire distress. Some boys, said he, had stolen his Guinea monkey, and sold it to the museum. He went there to recover his property, but was told to go away and mind his own business. He is very anxious to regain possession of his pet and wants the assistance of the strong arm of the law.

INSTRUMENTS FOR THE WEATHER BUREAU.—The first lot of instruments for the Oregon State weather service will arrive to-morrow from Philadelphia and will be distributed next week by Signal Service Officer Pague. The lot consists principally of thermometers and rain gauges. They are government standard instruments and were made especially for the state weather bureau.

IT IS ONLY AT THE EAST PORTLAND "N" street gallery, between Fourth and Fifth, that I am making cabinet photographs for $2 per dozen. I shall continue five days longer. The negatives that I have made in the last two days are all good. I shall show proof of all my negatives. Professor G. L. Eastman.

APPOINTED ASSISTANT GENERAL AGENT.—Joseph Campbell, formerly connected with the O. R. & N. Co.'s freight office, arrived from Lexington, Kentucky, Thursday night, and will become the assistant general agent of the Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad in this city.

BENDING THE OARS.—A race will be rowed this evening at 6:30, between the cedar boat Willamette and the Paper Shell, both of the Willamette Rowing Club. The course will be from the north end of Ross island to the Morrison street bridge, about a mile and a half.

BOY DROWNED.—Parker H. Sweet, aged 5 years, the son of F. M. and Julia Sweet, was drowned in the Columbia at Skamokawa, August 2. The body was recovered and buried last Tuesday. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends.

ADJUDGED INSANE.—Francoise Catharine, a native of France, 25 years old, was adjudged insane yesterday. She has different delusions, one of which is that she can obtain a large amount of money if possessed of gold spectacles.

ENTER IN THE RACES.—The committee appointed by the Multnomah Driving Association to make arrangements for a meeting request that all who intend to enter, to leave their names with Magoon Bros., Third and Madison streets.

DAN MAHER FINDS A JOB.—Ex-policeman Dan Maher, who was removed from the police force at the instance of Chief Parrish for alleged inattention to duty, was yesterday appointed janitor of the county court house.

NEW PORTLAND HOSPITAL.—Work on the new Portland hospital near Sunnyside is progressing rapidly. The foundation and basement are completed and work on the superstructure will be commenced at once.

THE OPEN AIR SHOW.—Where are you going next Sunday? To the Japanese out-door exhibition, of course, at City View Park. It is only 50 cents admission including round trip on Narrow Gauge railroad!

HANDKERCHIEFS TO-DAY.—An immense variety of linen, batiste and lawn handkerchiefs at prices which will make it the sale of the season. Pure linen hem stitched and embroidered from 9 cents up.

GEORGE H. RIVER.—The popular young undertaker and embalmer, was called by telegraph yesterday afternoon to Vancouver to embalm a young man for shipment to Canada.

JACK DEMPSEY'S FATHER DEAD.—A dispatch has been received from Brooklyn, New York, announcing the death there on Tuesday, of the father of Jack Dempsey, the pugilist.

LICENSED TO WED.—Marriage licenses were granted yesterday for Ed Williams, aged 32, and Eva E. Hoffman, aged 28; H. L. Torrence, aged 33, and Emma J. Dewert, aged 27.

A DELIGHTFUL TIME.—Where at? Why City View Park next Sunday afternoon. The novel and wonderful open air exhibit of the clever Japanese! We are all going.

NOTICE.—The O. R. & N. Co.'s steamer R. R. Thompson will leave Ash street wharf at 10 P. M., Saturday, August 10th, for Astoria and Ilwaco. A. L. Maxwell, G. P. & F. A.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Stephen Castleman, of Eugene, Or., son of P. F. Castleman, of this city, died suddenly yesterday of heart disease.

HAVE GREATLY INCREASED BUSINESS.—The business of the Western Union Telegraph Company has so increased that it has been found necessary to provide a duplex circuit between here and Walla Walla, and are likely to have to place one between this city and Spokane Falls. The force in the Portland office has been increased two operators, an assistant delivery clerk and two additional messengers. New offices are also being opened on the O. R. & N. extensions. The business of the office in this city is this month one-tenth greater than last month.

THOSE REPORTERS!—Max O'Rell (Paul Blouet) says that in America reporting has simply overrun and swallowed up journalism. It is a demolition of the wall of private life; the substitution of gossip for chronicle, of clatter for criticism. To the interviewer nothing is sacred; audacity is his stock in trade. The most private details of your daily life are at his mercy, and unless you blow his brains out—which is not considered lawful in the Eastern states—you have no means of getting rid of him.

LIQUOR LICENSES.—Already 135 liquor and beer licenses have been taken out since the new law has gone into effect. This is an increase of thirty-two licenses over the number taken out during the last quarter under the old law. The licenses may be high, but the people must have their drinks. The high license law practically makes no difference further than putting a little more money into the city treasury.

THEY CONTRIBUTED.—The female employes of H. B. Litt & Co. subscribed $19 to the Spokane Falls relief fund and turned it over to the committee.

TO INCREASE THE WATER SUPPLY.

Contracts Let for a Ten Million Gallon Pump and the Laying of a 24-Inch Main to Palatine Hill.

A protracted meeting of the water committee was held yesterday afternoon, in the parlors of Ladd & Tilton's bank. The principal business of the meeting was the consideration of bids for laying four and a half miles of water main from the pumping station at Palatine hill to the city, and for putting in a new pump engine of not less than ten million gallons daily capacity.

As the committee were undecided what kind of pipe to use in the construction of this main, a long discussion and several ballots were necessary to determine this matter. Very few had any idea of the relative strength or durability of any kind of material, and when it came to voting they were largely influenced by the remarks of the last speaker. The difference in the cost of material also cut some figure.

The first matter of business taken up was a petition from [illegible] F. Powers, asking permission to run a pipe from the main on the macadamized road to his furniture factory at his own expense. The request was granted.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT SMITH.

Isaac W. Smith, superintendent of the city water works, then submitted a lengthy report containing a fair abstract of proposals for pipes and an engine.

Following the reading of this report the committee entered into a lengthy discussion of the merits and demerits of the various kinds of pipe on which bids had been received.

A motion not to consider the proposals for cast iron pipe was voted down. A motion to reconsider the vote prevailed, and then a motion to consider all proposals, including those for cast iron pipes, was carried unanimously. After the question of material was thoroughly exhausted, and all had expressed preferences, a motion was put to award the contract for laying four and one-half miles of 24-inch wrought iron pipe of forty-five thousand tensile strength to [illegible] & Zwicker, the lowest bidder, their bid being $85,000. The motion was carried, and the secretary was authorized to enter into a contract with the firm. The firm will put under $10,000 bonds to satisfactorily complete the work in six months.

The Schickle, Harrison & Howard Company, of St. Louis was awarded the contract for laying three-quarters of a mile of twenty-four-inch cast iron pipe (420 tons) at $4[illegible] per ton.

The question what kind of a pump to put in caused considerable discussion. Representatives of the Holly and Worthington engine companies were present to represent their machines. After listening to their respective claims a vote was taken on the proposition of the Holly company to put in a Gaskill engine for $57,[illegible]. The motion in favor of the proposition prevailed, and the contract will be awarded to that firm.

Mr. [illegible] J. [illegible], formerly superintendent of the Portland Reduction Works, is down from Spokane Falls.

J. [illegible] Peebles, of the firm of Peebles, Register & Lyons, returned to-day from a flying trip to Tacoma and Seattle. He reports things very lively on the Sound.

Colonel R. H. Magill, the efficient general agent of the Home Mutual Insurance Company, arrived yesterday from San Francisco en route to Spokane Falls, where he goes to settle the losses sustained by his company. He will leave this morning for Spokane.

Mr. Thoms, general agent for the Pacific coast for Lamson's cash railway store service, will make a special trip to Portland about September 1, to put in one of their new improved in the store of McAllen & McDonnell, Third and Morrison.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

The undersigned fire loss adjusters desire to thus publicly acknowledge the courteous and gentlemanly treatment encountered at the hands of Mr. George A. Taylor, general ticket agent O. R. & N. Co., in connection with their transportation arrangements en route from this city to Spokane Falls. They regard this as all the more properly the due of the gentleman named from the fact that they are familiar with the almost numberless vexations which gentlemen occupying his trying position are hourly subject to. One and all we extend to Mr. Taylor our hearty thanks.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, AUG. 9.

AN IDEAL COMMUNE.

This is pre-eminently an age of physic. Institutions for turning out doctors wholesale are upon every hand, rivaled only in activity by the machine that turns lawyers upon the country every year. The supply comes, of course, to meet a demand, and this demand it may be considered one of the first duties of medical ethics to keep up and increase.

There are certain barbarous countries, so-called, where physicians are paid fees only so long as the people under their charge are well. The moment that any member of the family is taken sick the doctor's pay stops, and the celerity with which he gets the sick one around again is as marvelous as the "quick cures" proclaimed by the most largely advertising quack whose wonderful "powers" ever electrified a country community or set a city like Portland wild in the endeavor to reach the golden chariot in which a "French doctress" once rode in state through the streets. The stimulus upon a doctor in such circumstances is necessarily powerful; he uses his best skill to cure, and the result is a state of robust health in those favored lands which puts the devices and nostrums of civilization to shame.

In civilized lands the system is wholly in the interest of the doctors. Health means starvation, sickness a golden harvest. The story of the zealous young physician who, imbued with a holy enthusiasm for his art, went home to go into partnership with his father and in less than a week cured the most obstinate case on the books, may be cited. "You have ruined my practice," exclaimed the old man in despair, and though the story ends here, we may reasonably suppose that the young man was taken under the immediate tutelage of his experienced parent and taught some things that he did not know before.

It is remarked as a marvel of stupidity, at variance with the boasted intelligence of the Nineteenth century, that it is not more common for twenty, thirty, or a hundred families to club together and pay some reputable physician so much a month or year to keep them well. Of course such procedure would be "irregular," and call down upon the head of the doctor the wrath of his professional brethren, to say nothing of insuring his expulsion from the county medical society, but a dollar a week from a hundred families would fix that matter for him and leave him a great deal of time to look into the sanitary condition of the district in which his "commune" lived. This last possibility in itself discloses immense improvement in sanitation, which might be brought about through the agency of this "ideal commune." It is reasonably certain that there would be an immense falling off in the sick list through the intelligent desire of scientific men to keep the community well. The enthusiast readily sees in it the physical regeneration of an ailing race. A thousand things that are generally ignored, and which yet make up the health or disease of a region, would receive attention undreamed of in a system that makes money off the sickness and starves on the health of a community. The present system is likened to "a pyramid that sits upon its apex, in which unstable condition it is supported by the doctors at an immense loss of energy, and by the public at an immense loss of life." To invent a suitable plan and place it upon a stable foundation is, it is urged, so simple that it would be policy to give it at least a fair trial.

THE ONLY SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM.

Dr. Talmage, the noted preacher soon to be heard in Portland, has a very exalted opinion of the press. He says:

> I have been betrayed by about every class of men in the world, but never by a newspaper man, and I believe there is a spirit of fairness abroad in the newspapers that is hardly to be found anywhere else. There is no man, however poor, if he has been done an injustice, that can not get himself set right by the newspaper. A good newspaper is the grandest temporal blessing that God has given the people of this country. All the people read the newspapers, and the newspapers furnish the greater proportion of the reading to the people. They don't read books. The old people look for the deaths, the young look for the marriages, the business man reads the business and financial columns, and those who are unemployed read the want "ads." Great libraries make few intelligent men and women, but newspapers lift the nations into sunlight. A vast improvement will be made in the newspapers when the universities have departments where young men are prepared for editorial and reportorial work. The universities have schools of law and of medicine, and why not of journalism.

With this latter statement we are not quite prepared to agree. The peculiar attainments necessary for success in the various branches of newspaper work cannot be acquired at a college. A good practical and classical education is of inestimable value in this, as in all other callings, but the successful newspaper man gets his training, among men, in observation of events, in contact with all the varieties of human nature, and in a general rough experience with the world. The best school for the journalist is right in the office of a great, honest, able newspaper, where merit is as readily recognized and rewarded as in any of the other professions.

THE POPE AS A POLITICIAN.

The London correspondent of the New York Times is authority for the statement that the pope, and not Mgr. Persico, was the author of the papal rescript denouncing the plan of campaign in Ireland. Mgr. Persico was sent by the vatican to Ireland to investigate and report upon the situation. This was in 1887. In April, 1888, while Persico was still at work in Ireland, the rescript was published. It was generally assumed that Persico recommended it, and the convent where he lived was boycotted. He retired to England, and was very coolly received by prominent Roman Catholic families there.

The London correspondent of the Times declares that Persico had not been in Ireland long before he became a convert to home rule. He recommended to the vatican that the four archbishops of Ireland and one bishop of each province be summoned to Rome in order to explain in detail the grounds for the demand for home rule. This recommendation was ignored, as well as his request to return to Rome, and the promulgation of the rescript completed his discomfiture. Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state, meantime had been intriguing with the duke of Norfolk and other Roman Catholic noblemen, with the hope of securing a British diplomatic representative at the vatican in return for pressure upon the Irish clergy to abandon boycotting and similar forms of obstruction. Lord Shelborne, a liberal unionist, and a member of the Established church, seems to have been the go-between, in which service it is stated that he even visited Rome and had a private conference with the pope.

Sheriff Kelly has issued cards to the select few whose presence is desired at the gruesome entertainment that it is to be hoped will not, after all, take place in the county jail yard to-day. They are decorously bordered in black, in accordance with the regulation style of tickets to an official matinee, the purpose and attraction of which is an execution, and they entitle the holder to all the privileges of the occasion. The desire that is expressed in the eagerness to witness a spectacle so revolting as death on the gallows must necessarily be, is one difficult to analyze, and is very properly held in check by the law that provides that executions shall be private. The desire cannot be prompted by malignity, since there is no reason for such a feeling toward the criminal who is to suffer death; nor by brutality, since reputable, orderly and humane citizens, men and women, have been known to ride many miles through dust and heat to witness such a scene; nor by curiosity, since, according to a generally accepted theory, this is an element distinctively and exclusively feminine. But whatever prompts or composes the desire it exists to a degree that causes the holders of the sheriff's invitations to be envied by many disappointed applicants for official favors on this occasion. As to the abject creature who is to suffer the extreme penalty, his condition excites a pity that positive proof of his guilt would forbid.

LOOSE SOCIAL IDEAS.

A swindler whose last alias is A. Bentley Worthington, and whose most recent occupation has been that of a "Christian Science Professor," induced Mrs. Plunkett, a coworker in the cause to abandon her husband, take the false step of self-divorce, and to live with him under the guise of spiritual affinity. The peculiar feature of the story is that the woman prior to her contract with Worthington was known as pure, virtuous and reasonably pious, and that even though the man's entire villainy for the past score of years has been fully exposed and he has left her, as he did eight other of his former victims, she still has faith in him and believes that he has honestly repented of his evils. In the following extract she explains why she left her husband without seeking the operation of law:

> I saw there was no hope through an institution that makes heart and love quality subjective to convenience and lust, and that the most civil law can do is to satisfy or recognize a union already existing in the inmost selves of the contracting parties. I saw it was outrageous and indecent that the proceedings of the bed chamber should be paraded before the world, in the court room and the public press, and that there could be no sanctity in the home until this blighting order of things was changed. Civil law cannot regulate the soul, and it has no right to claim to deal with marriage, save in temporal matters, as it deals with other contracts or partnerships. The place for the settlement of matrimonial difficulties is in the home and not the courts.

We quote the following to show how complete a mastery the scoundrel had secured over the woman's mind:

> In handling my money, of which he has had entire control, he has been scrupulously careful, wise and saving. He could have taken every dollar had he desired, but he felt that my business was his, and he has shown an economy and thoughtfulness in little things that has been a revelation to me. He is the embodiment of persistence and application. I really believe he would stand at his post of duty twenty hours out of every twenty-four without one word of complaint. He has more strength, both mentally and physically; more courage, determination and perseverance, than I have ever met in any half-dozen persons could they be combined in one. He has a strong will and quick temper, which, however, in the brief time he has been practicing science rules, has come under good control. His deportment in the home is sincere, chaste, thoughtful and tenderly dignified. He possesses such tremendous force that once thrown off the track one might expect to hear just such things as we have heard.

The deluded woman actually can see no reason why all those whom Worthington has wronged should wish to punish him, according to law for his misdeeds. She would have them give him a chance to do good in the world, and quotes Christ's words to the erring one, "Go and sin no more." Society has an interest not only in the individual conduct of this pair when they outrage all sense of moral decency, but it has a deeper interest in the latest plea of the woman who begs the victims of her "lover" not to persecute him in order that she may have the benefit of his affection undisturbed by a pursuing Nemesis.

Free love has no place and free divorce no welcome in the moral world, for many reasons. What individuals may have a right to do in a state of nature, they cannot repeat when men have been banded together for improvement and protection into communities. With free love and free divorce it will be impossible to regulate the rights of children and the descent of property. By far the most absorbing evil that free love and free divorce entail upon society, is in all questions affecting the rearing, maintenance and education of children. Society must oppose these pernicious systems, or assume the care of children whose support and protection should be attended to by natural parents, and for whose care every instinct of humanity suggests that parents alone should be responsible.

We invite the attention of those who favor Canadian annexation to the fact that the debt of the Dominion has reached the enormous figure of $285,778,656, or $56 per head of population, at which it stood on the 1st of July ult. As compared with 1879 the debt has been increased 73 per cent, with 1869, 154 per cent. This progress is without parallel in the history of any new country, an increase of 154 per cent in twenty years. In 1869 Canada owed England $75,827,175; in 1879, $128,307,409, increasing in 1889 to $188,713,935. During the past year $12,112,160 has been added to the Dominion debt, payable in London. This enormous liability has mainly been contracted in the construction of the Canadian Pacific and Intercolonial railways and Dominion canals. Last year there was a deficit of nearly half a million dollars in working the Intercolonial, while in the maintenance of the Dominion canals there is a large annual loss. A careful consideration of the matter may lead to the conclusion that Canada is not worth the price.

Nevada is about the only state in the Union that does not seem to be forging ahead in progress and prosperity. The valuation of taxable property amounts only to $35,652,000, while the vote has decreased from 19,691 in 1876 to 12,590 in 1880. The population has decreased from 62,266 in 1880 to a little more than 40,000 at present. The people themselves complain that the population and resources of the state are not sufficient to maintain a state government. Such a lamentable state of affairs is due to the fact that Nevada has depended on mining solely for the source of wealth, and the returns from that industry alone have not been sufficient to make the growth of the state permanent.

The Plymouth monument, which was dedicated Aug. 1, consists of a heroic-sized granite figure of Faith, thirty-six feet high, standing on a granite pedestal forty-five feet high. On the buttresses are seated figures representing Morality, Education, Freedom and Law. It cost $130,000, and is described in this verse of O'Reilly's poem:

> When waves of ages have their motive spent,
> Thy sermon preaches in this monument,
> Where Virtue, Courage, Law and Learning sit;
> Calm Faith above them, grasping Holy Writ;
> White hand upraised o'er beauteous, trusting eyes,
> And pleading finger pointing to the skies!

In the Chinese empire, with an area of 4,400,000 square miles and a population of 370,000,000, the entire railroad system is comprised in eighty-five miles of road. The latest news from China is to the effect that the emperor has ordered the construction of another road, and there is every likelihood that construction upon an extensive scale will soon receive the sanction of the imperial government. It would certainly mark an era in the prosperity of that slow developing nation.

JOHN SHERMAN ON THE WARPATH.

A Lone Highwayman Robs a Train—A Shocking Story From the South—Has Burke Confessed?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—In response to the telegram received from Chairman Foster yesterday morning, announcing the successful completion of the work of the Sioux commission, Secretary Noble sent the following telegram to the commissioners:

> My congratulations and sincere thanks for your able efforts and great success. You have done a great work for humanity, the Indian included. Have sent your telegram to the president, who is at Boston to-day.

According to the act of congress under which the agreement of the Indians has just been consummated the relinquished portion of the Sioux reservation is divided into six reservations, as follows: Standing Rock, Cheyenne River, Lower Brule, Crow Creek, Pine Ridge and Rosebud, so separated that a large portion of the relinquished part of the reservation divides them into sets, one set being on the northern end of the reservation, another on the eastern and the third on the southern.

The land thrown open to settlement will aggregate about 11,000,000 acres, and will be disposed of by the United States to actual settlers only at the following rates: $1 25 per acre for all lands taken within the first three years after the act takes effect, 75 cents per acre for lands disposed of within the succeeding two years, and 50 cents per acre for the residue of the lands then undisposed of.

The act provides that the agreement as now entered into must be submitted to congress at its next session for ratification.

TO KEEP OUT INTRUDERS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Secretary Noble has requested the war department to take necessary steps to keep intruders away from the Sioux reservation. His action is taken in anticipation of a rush of settlers now that the success of the Sioux commission is assured.

SENATOR SHERMAN'S BAGGAGE.

The Outrageous Conduct of the English Customs Officials.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Senator John Sherman returned a few days ago from Belgium, with his baggage checked through to Charing Cross station. The baggage consisted of several trunks and some newly-purchased dresses belonging to Mrs. Sherman, which were in a wooden box. On disembarking at Charing Cross, the customs officials insisted upon examining the contents of every package and behaved in a manner considered outrageous by the senator. He stated that there was nothing dutiable in the baggage and gave the chief official his card. Neither the card nor the explanation had any effect. Every trunk was emptied, and the wooden box was broken open and left in that condition.

Senator Sherman said that the affair was a queer commentary on the tariff regulations of the greatest free trade country of the world. The same baggage had gone through France, Switzerland, Germany, Italy and Belgium without trouble until free trade England was reached.

A BOLD ROBBER.

Single Handed He Plunders a Train and Succeeds in Escaping.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 8.—As the Wisconsin Central passenger train from Chicago was passing Chippewa Falls at 4 o'clock this morning it was held up and robbed by a single man. Between Chippewa Falls and Albertsford half an hour before the hour named a man entered one of the sleeping cars of the train. Shortly after he commanded the conductor and porter to throw up their hands, and then proceeded to go through them, taking all they had. One passenger was robbed, and a shot or two was fired at the porter, but no one was hit. The robber pulled the bell rope as soon as be completed the robbery, and when the train came to a stop jumped off and escaped.

The man is described as having the appearance of a woodsman. He wore a slouch hat, carried a gun and had a big knife in his belt. He entered the sleeper and drove the porter to one end of the car. The porter did some yelling to awaken the passengers, whereupon the robber fired. This put a quietus on the porter. The robber took from the conductor $30 and a silver watch; from the porter a gold watch and a small amount of money; from a passenger some money and a watch. He tackled another passenger, but the latter told him the conductor had all his money, but, as a matter of fact, the man had $500 on his person.

"OH, I AM SHOT!"

A Miner Shot and Killed by a Jackson, Cal., Saloonkeeper.

JACKSON, Cal., Aug. 7.—It is learned that James Caddy, a miner, was shot and instantly killed at Amador City, Monday night, by Archie Clemence, a saloonkeeper. Deceased had been drinking in the saloon and became quarrelsome. He was ordered out at the point of a double-barreled shotgun. He went home and returned in twenty minutes with a shotgun, threatening to kill the saloonkeeper. In crossing the road he was told by Clemence to halt, but he kept on, when Clemence fired a charge of bird shot, taking effect in the neck and breast. Caddy cried, "Oh, I am shot," and fell into the arms of his wife, who had followed him, begging him to return home. Besides his wife, he leaves five small children. Clemence was arrested and will have an examination to-morrow.

HAS BURKE CONFESSED?

A Report That the Cronin Suspect Has Broken Down.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Martin Burke, the Cronin suspect, was taken to the county jail and delivered to the sheriff this morning. This ended the habeas corpus proceedings for the purpose of allowing Burke's attorney to see him.

It is reported with much positiveness that Burke has confessed. The story goes that he had an interview of two hours' duration with State's Attorney Longnecker and Chief of Police Hubbard. It is said that a letter signed by Burke will be produced in court to-morrow, repudiating Kennedy as his attorney. The details of the alleged confession are lacking, and official confirmation cannot be had.

THE WATERWAYS CONVENTION.

A Resolution Petitioning Congress for Improvements in the Great Lakes.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 7.—In the Waterways Convention to-day, J. G. Keath, of Chicago, presented a comparison of the treatment by the government of the water and rail routes for the two railroad systems terminating in Duluth. The government gave 47,000,000 acres of land, worth $95,000,000, while for improving the outlets of Lake Superior the government gave 750,000 acres, and a total of $1,025,000. The resolution was then presented petitioning congress for the construction of a ship canal twenty feet in depth through the narrows and rivers connecting the great lakes; also that the harbors be deepened as rapidly as practicable, so as to accommodate vessels drawing twenty feet of water.

A SHOCKING STORY.

Three Women Outraged and Two Men Murdered.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 7.—A shocking story comes from Covington county by way of Garland. A widow and two grown daughters and a 12-year-old son live near a little place called McNeill. The other night three young men went to the house and outraged the women and demolished everything about the premises.

They then went to the house of an old negro near by, found him sick, and shaved his head and beat him so that he died the next day. His son saw them, and asked them why they treated his father so. The answer was four pistol shots which killed him.

The dispatch gave no names. The place is remote from the telegraph.

THE GEODETIC SURVEY.

The Party to Determine and Establish the Alaska Boundary at Work.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 8.—The geodetic survey party sent out by the United States government to definitely determine and establish the Alaskan boundary is now at work. They stopped at Ounalaska, where soundings were made, and the variation of the magnetic needle ascertained. The surveyors with stores disembarked at the mouth of the Yukon river and proceeded on their way.

The interior department is thinking of sending an expedition to assist the United States party, but nothing is yet definitely settled. If matters are satisfactorily arranged, a party will start next month and, proceeding by boat up the Yukon will winter there and continue operations next year.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

An Ex-Railroad President in Trouble in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Eben Allen, until a few days ago president of the Forty-second & Grand Street Ferry Railroad Company, was brought to the Tombs police court this morning and charged with forgery in issuing certificates of stock of the company to the amount of $110,000. The accused was held in $100,000 bonds, in default of which he was locked up. Allen seemed very cool and admitted issuing 700 shares of stock and getting the benefit of it, but denied forging the signatures of John Green and Charles Curtis, the former presidents of the company.

A Monomaniac Who Breaks Into the Bedrooms of Women.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 8.—There is a mysterious man here known as "Jack the Ripper." He is sort of a monomaniac on the subject of gazing at charms. Within the past few months he is known to have entered thirty-five houses. He goes armed, but his object is not robbery, for he never takes anything. He always seeks women's bedrooms. In nearly every instance the inmates have been awakened by his entrance, but has always managed to escape, and has evaded the vigilance of the police force.

GENERAL FREMONT A BANKRUPT.

He Admits His Inability to Pay His Debts.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—General John C. Fremont appeared in court in this city this morning, where judgments were entered against him for $629, including interest and costs, in the suit of Bretano Bros. against him. The General voluntarily appeared and admitted the debt, but stated his inability to meet the liability. Confession of judgment was therefore recorded against him.

A STEAMSHIP WRECKED.

The Passengers and Crew Waiting for a Homeward Bound Ship.

FATHER POINT, Ont., Aug. 7.—The steamship Montreal, of the Dominion line, which sailed from Montreal on July 31 for Liverpool, is totally wrecked on Belle Isle. The passengers and all hands were saved. They have plenty of provisions, and await a homeward bound steamer to take them to England.

San Francisco Market Review.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—Wheat is now strong, for the simple reason that most growers do not care to sell at the current prices and are storing their wheat. This results in a poorly-furnished market, and buyers find themselves obliged to pay stiff prices to call out the supplies. Under the circumstances, therefore, the market, although firm, is more or less quiet.

Millers report a good demand for flour at unchanged prices.

Grain bags are depressed at 7 cents, which is a further decline, and are not over active.

There were no important variations under the head of country produce last week. Nearly all kinds of produce, barring fruits, of course, were quiet.

The receipts of hay are ample, without being excessive, and the demand is fair at unchanged prices.

Beans are neglected, and largely nominal at about last week's quotations.

Potatoes are in good supply and moderate demand.

Onions are plentiful and cheap.

Butter is steady; still the eastern market is choked with butter, and some of it is finding its way out here to the detriment of this market.

Cheese is easy, as free receipts of Western, which can be laid down here at 10 cents per pound, are expected.

California eggs are quieter and weaker, and Eastern are lower, as one of the periodical wars on them has begun.

Hops are lifeless, and in default of transactions it is impossible to give quotations.

Wool continues dull and weak. Dealers are now as blue as they were blithe a few weeks ago.

The supplies of Liverpool salt have recently been increased, but the stocks are still moderate and prices firm.

Sugar is still lower than last week, but has not fluctuated for several days.

Coffee shows no pronounced change, being steadily held, but quiet. This market is very dependent on that of New York, which it generally follows closely in its fluctuations.

Rice continues strong at a further advance, and the market has been slenderly supplied for some little time.

Provisions show no variations worthy of note.

Hams rule firm and bacon is weak.

There is nothing new in canned salmon.

Dry goods rule quiet, but in view of the large harvest the dealers expect a brisk fall trade. Already a few country buyers on this account have appeared, but the real business has not yet opened.

Lumber is in fair demand, and the agreed-upon schedule of prices is generally adhered to by houses and companies. The effect of shutting down the mills for regular periods, to diminish the supplies, is now visible, as the supply of 1889, although in excess of that of 1888, is beginning to slacken up.

Coal is steady, but prices show no further change.

Two Men Drowned.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 7.—This afternoon, while Eugene Learn and a friend, whose name cannot be ascertained, were sailing in a boat from False bar around point Loma to the entrance of San Diego harbor, the craft was capsized, and both men were drowned. The accident was witnessed by parties on shore, but they were unable to render assistance. Neither the boat nor the men have been seen since. Learn leaves a family at Roseville.

The Kentucky Election.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 8.—The returns from the state election up to this morning show that the democrats have increased their plurality by 18,000 over the election of two years ago, and that Monday's majority will reach 35,000. The last legislature stood 102 democrats and 32 opposition. That elected on Monday will consist of 114 democrats and 24 republicans.

IT WAS A SEVERE BLOW

Mrs. Maybrick Staggered by the Jury's Verdict.

SHE HAD EXPECTED ACQUITTAL

The Miserable Woman, Rejecting Offers of Assistance, Reeled From the Court Room to Her Cell.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 8.—The sentence of death pronounced yesterday on Mrs. Maybrick for poisoning her husband is one of the principal topics of conversation to-day.

It is evident that she expected an acquittal, or at least a light verdict. When the jury rendered the verdict of guilty she sat down in her chair, gasping for breath and seemingly more dead than alive. She sat sobbing like a child, while the judge, assuming the black cap, in solemn tones sentenced her to be hanged by the neck until she was dead.

Some women present were soon in tears, and strong men were stealthily wiping their eyes, as if ashamed of their tears. The judge himself was visibly moved and the barristers were very grave.

Florence Elizabeth Maybrick rose to walk from the fatal dock. She tottered and almost fell and the kindly wardens put out their hands to steady her, but it was her strength and not her courage that had failed her. She shrunk from the hands of the wardens, as if their well-meaning help was repulsive to her tastes. Without a supporting hand to hold her up, she trod the steps leading downward toward the felon's cell. It was a terrible sight to see the frail little woman slowly, falteringly descending without aid the cold steps, and it was only when her widow's cap disappeared that the men and women present breathed again.

There is a rumor that Mrs. Maybrick is in a delicate condition. If this were true, it would save her from the gallows, but the report is not believed. A woman under death sentence making such a claim is placed in the hands of a jury of twelve matrons. If their verdict is that the prisoner is likely to become a mother, she is respited, which means imprisonment for life, otherwise she is hanged.

A HISTORY OF THE CASE.

The Maybrick case is one of the most remarkable that has recently come under the jurisdiction of the English courts, and may be summarized thus: James Maybrick, a prominent cotton merchant of Liverpool, died on the 13th of May, after a fortnight's illness. The post mortem examination showed that his death was due to arsenical poisoning, and his wife, Florence Elizabeth Maybrick, was arrested for murder. After an examination before the committing magistrate June 15, she was held for trial before the assizes.

Mrs. Maybrick is an American, her maiden name was Chandler. Maybrick married her eight years ago, he being forty and she eighteen. Their married live was not happy and Mrs. Maybrick's relations with the Brierly who figured prominently in the opening of the case was the ground of the quarrels that were supposed to have inspired the murder.

A nurse named Yapp, who took care of Mrs. Maybrick's youngest child, swore that one day the baby dropped a letter, which the nurse opened. It was addressed to Brierly, and in it Mrs. Maybrick said that her husband would soon die. The trial has lasted a week, and has been filled with dramatic incidents.

No such trial as this has been known in England for thirty years, when Madeline Smith was tried for poisoning her lover. Miss Smith, like Mrs. Maybrick, was a young lady of social consequence, and resided in Glasgow. As a mere girl her affections were won by a fellow who proved unworthy. The perception of this and his personal treatment of her caused a revulsion of feeling. The allegation against her was that she inveigled him to her house and poisoned him. The evidence against her was circumstantial, but very compromising. Owing to her brilliant defense, however, she was acquitted.

THE PRESS FEEBLY CONCURS.

The majority of the London papers feebly concur in the Maybrick verdict.

A MEMORIAL IN HER BEHALF.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Maybrick is seriously ill to-night. A memorial to the government, in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick, has been signed by most of the barristers and solicitors of the Liverpool circuit. The memorial asks a reprieve on the ground of the conflicting nature of the medical evidence.

Sanford's Ginger

SANFORD'S GINGER

King of Gingers

Melons and SANFORD'S GINGER, the bane and antidote of modern civilization.

What more refreshing to the irritated and parched mucous membrane on a hot, sultry day than a slice of cold, ripe, luscious, black-eyed watermelons. But it has its painful side.

If the melon is sometimes full of cussedness, the antidote, SANFORD'S GINGER, is ever at hand to neutralize its venom and restore to health the disturbed functions.

This unrivaled household panacea and traveling companion is sure to check every disturbance of the bowels, instantly relieve cramps and pains, prevent indigestion, destroy disease germs in water drank, restore the circulation when suspended by a chill,—a frequent cause of cholera morbus,—break up colds and fevers, and ward off malarial, contagious and epidemic influences. THE TALKING MATCH.

Concluded from Second Page.

[illegible] 13—to have a grand committee, and Mr Gowey was called to the chair.

The first section was taken up and agreed to, as follows:

Section 1—Educational reformatory and penal institutions—those for the benefit of blind, deaf, dumb or otherwise defective youth, for insane or idiotic, and such other institutions as the public good may require—shall be fostered and supported by the state, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law. The regents, trustees, or commissioners of all such institutions existing at the time of the adoption of this constitution, and of such as shall thereafter be established by law, shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, and upon all nominations made by the governor the question shall be taken by the yeas and nays and entered upon the journal.

Griffitts moved to strike out section 2, as follows: "All state institutions and public buildings of the state not provided for by law at the time of the adoption of this constitution shall be located at the permanent seat of government, unless otherwise provided by law." Carried—yeas 31, nays 14.

LOCATION OF THE CAPITAL.

The People to Vote on This Question at the First Election.

The second article reported by the committee relative to the seat of government was next read and considered by sections.

Section 1.—The legislature shall have no power to change or locate the seat of government of this state, but the question of the permanent location of the seat of government for the state shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the territory, at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday in October, 1889. A majority of all the votes cast at said election upon said question shall be necessary to determine the permanent location of the seat of government for the state, and no place shall ever be the seat of government which shall not receive a majority of the votes cast on the matter. In case there shall be no choice of location at said first election the legislature shall, at its first regular session after the adoption of this constitution, provide for submitting to the qualified electors of the state at the next succeeding general election thereafter the question of choice of location between the three places for which the highest number of votes shall have been cast at the said first election. Said legislature shall provide further, that in case there shall be no choice of location at said second election, the question of choice between the two places for which the highest number of votes shall have been cast shall be submitted in like manner to the qualified electors of the state at the ensuing general election, provided, that until the seat of government shall have been permanently located as herein provided, the temporary location thereof shall remain at the city of Olympia.

Prosser thought it premature to call upon the people to vote on the question of capital before even the constitution was adopted or the state admitted, and when lines of travel and locations were so undetermined. A year's postponement at the very least, should be had and three years even would be better. So he moved to amend by providing that the first election on this subject should be in November 1890.

Dyer agreed.

Gowey moved further to amend by substituting 1895.

Prosser said there was no general election in 1895.

Gowey said 1896 would do then and unless it was to be immediately attended to, there was no hurry about it.

Turner opposed 1896, and favored 1890. He described the numerous questions that would come before the electors at this year's election and said the state could get along for the first year at Olympia.

Suksdorf favored 1896, on economical grounds, preferring to wait a while before erecting a state house and such buildings.

Cosgrove was satisfied that no one election would settle the matter, and so time enough would be had by waiting for the succeeding elections, beginning this coming October.

Further opinions varied thus:

Stiles, 1890, or not later than 1892.

Griffitts, right away, the sooner the better.

Kinnear, 1890, or any subsequent year.

Moore, any time except 1889.

Dunbar—As soon as possible.

McElroy—Right away, and make it Olympia.

Power—1896, so the burnt cities could rebuild and get into the race.

Godman—1889, but let it remain at Olympia until all needful buildings are finished.

Lillis—1890, and take it easy.

Sturdevant—1892, same reason.

T. M. Reed—Right now. It is not a complicated question, nor engineered by any so called "Olympia ring." And for the benefit of the Eastern Washington press, he showed that a majority of all the important committees were from east of the mountains.

Gowey's proposition (1896) was lost.

Minor proposed November 1892, lost.

Prosser's amendment (1890) was lost, ayes 25, nays 41.

Griffitts suggested the words "at the election to be held for adoption of this constitution" adopted. Section 1 was then agreed to.

CONSIDERATION COMPLETED.

And Both Articles Agreed to Under Suspension of Rules

Section 2.—When the seat of government shall have been located as herein provided the location thereof shall not thereafter be changed except by a vote of two-thirds of all the qualified electors of the state, voting on that question at a general election at which the question of location of the seat of government shall have been submitted by the legislature.

Moore moved to strike out two-thirds and substitute a majority, lost.

The section was agreed to.

Sec. 3.—The legislature shall have power to provide by law such means, or make such appropriations from the state treasury, for repairs and enlargement of the capitol or other state buildings at Olympia as shall be deemed necessary and proper for the use of the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the state, and to subserve the public good, until the seat of government is permanently fixed and the public buildings erected thereat, in pursuance of law.

Godman offered a substitute providing that the legislature should make no appropriations for capitol buildings or grounds, except for necessary repairs and additions on the buildings at Olympia, until the location of the capital is settled.

Gowey moved to add "and for public buildings erected thereat in pursuance to law."

Godman said the legislature had already powers enough. What was wanted was a prohibition against their doing anything except necessary repairs until the capitol was located.

Gowey varied his amendment to read "and for public buildings at the permanent capital," and that was accepted, and then Godman's substitute was adopted, ayes 35, noes 25.

Minor moved to strike out the whole section, and leave all this to the legislature.

Godman hoped not, and that this restriction on the legislature might remain.

J. M. Reed agreed with him.

Sullivan favored striking out.

Stiles handed up a substitute limiting the legislature to an expenditure of $50,000 on buildings at Olympia until the permanent capital was located.

Gowey didn't believe any legislature would give even $2000 for that purpose. He had tried very hard two years ago to get $1500 for repairs and only got $500.

Minor's motion was lost.

On motion of Griffitts the committee rose to recommend the adoption of both articles.

The president resumed the chair and Crowley reported the recommendation of the committee. The amendments to both articles were concurred in.

On motion of Griffitts the first article on state institutions and public buildings was passed to the third reading and finally agreed to (under suspension of the rules) by a call of the roll as usual, only one voting "no," and that was subsequently explained to have been a mistake.

The second article, seat of government, was taken up.

Prosser renewed his amendment to hold the first election in November 1891 and demanded the yeas and nays. Result—yeas 24, nays 44.

On motion of Griffitts the rules were again suspended and this article was finally agreed to by a roll call—yeas 65, nays 8.

The chair submitted telegrams from the Port Townsend Chamber of Commerce, insisting on the right of the present occupiers and improvers of tide lands to purchase the same; tabled temporarily.

On motion of J. H. Sullivan the convention took a recess till 2 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The Article on Legislative Department Considered in Committee of the Whole

The convention met at 2, the president in the chair.

Sullivan of Tacoma presented the report of the committee on elections, with the article recommended; tabled temporarily and ordered printed.

Power asked leave of absence for Shoudy, on the ground of a sudden business call; granted.

Godman asked the same for Hungate and Jones the same for Willison; both were granted.

The president submitted a communication from Stevens post and Miller post of the G. A. R., expressing the thanks of the posts to the convention for the provision in the constitution respecting a soldiers home; ordered spread on the records.

Moore filed the minority report of himself, and another from Buchanan from the committee on legislative department, tabled temporarily to be considered with the other reports of that committee.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

On motion of Dyer, the convention went into committee of the whole to consider the article on legislative department, with Blalock of Walla Walla in the chair (Sturdevant and E. H. Sullivan successively called on and excused).

Section 1—The legislative powers shall be vested in a senate and a house of representatives, which shall be called the legislature of the state of Washington. Agreed to.

Sec. 2—The house of representatives shall be composed of not less than 63, nor more than 99 members. The number of senators shall not be more than one-half nor less than one-third of the number of members of the house of representatives. The first legislature shall be composed of 70 members of the house of representatives and 35 senators.

Griffitts moved to strike out all but the last sentence, so as to remove limitations in future legislatures. Lost, yeas 11, nays 24.

Warner moved to change 63 to 43 and 70 to 40, and 35 to 20, and gave his reason economy, a saving of about $225 per day by his amendment.

Dyer opposed.

Moore explained the action of the committee in fixing the figures, believing the convention had practically decided earlier in the session in favor of the larger figures.

Warner's amendment was lost.

Sec. 3.—The legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of the state in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety five, and every ten years thereafter and at their first session after such enumeration, and also after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall apportion and district anew the members of the senate and house of representatives according to the number of inhabitants excluding Indians not taxed soldiers sailors and officers of the United States army and navy in active service.

Griffitts wished to amend by allowing the legislature to adopt the enumeration of the United States government made in 1890 and in every tenth year thereafter, but deferred offering it for the moment.

Sec. 4.—Members of the house of representatives shall be elected in the year 1889, at the time and in the manner provided by this constitution, and shall hold their offices for the term of one year and until their successors shall be elected.

Griffitts moved to increase the term of office to three years for the first legislature.

Moore explained why the committee had arranged for one year. It would be a most important legislature and whatever defects were found in the first enactments could be remedied in one year.

E. H. Sullivan opposed the amendment which failed.

Sec. 5.—The next election of the members of the house of representatives after the adoption of this constitution shall be on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1890, and thereafter members of the house of representatives shall be elected biennially and their term of office shall be two years and each election shall be on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November unless otherwise changed by law. Agreed to.

Sec. 6—The senators shall be elected by single districts of convenient and contiguous territory, at the same time and in the same manner as the members of the house of representatives are required to be elected and no representative district shall be divided in the formation of a senatorial district. They shall be elected for the term of four years—one-half of their number retiring every two years. The senatorial districts shall be numbered consecutively and the senators chosen at the first election had by virtue of this constitution in the odd numbered districts shall go out of office at the end of the first year and the senators elected in the even numbered districts shall go out of office at the end of the third year and thereafter the senators shall be elected for the term of four years.

Griffitts moved to strike out the last clause in the first sentence, and argued strongly against leaving such a provision in the constitution preferring to leave the entire power in the legislature on this subject.

Crowley defended the section as it stood and he and Griffitts had a colloquy on the subject.

Weir was inclined to favor Griffitts' view of the matter.

The amendment was lost.

Sullivan of Tacoma moved to strike out "single" in the first line; lost.

Stiles moved to amend by substituting "after the first election for thereafter."

Moore accepted this amendment and it was agreed to.

Section 7. No person shall be eligible to the legislature who shall not be a citizen of the United States and have resided two years within the state and be a qualified voter in the district where he is chosen. Provided, that at the first election every citizen of the United States who is a qualified voter when elected shall be eligible.

Griffitts moved to strike out "have resided two years within the state and," leaving every qualified elector to be eligible.

Moore defended the two years qualification.

The amendment was lost.

Reed moved to strike out all of the balance of the section beginning with "provided."

Dyer opposed.

The amendment prevailed—32 to 13.

Sullivan of Tacoma moved to strike out the whole section; lost.

The section was agreed to.

Sec 8—Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members and a majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide. Agreed to.

Sec. 9—Each house may determine the rules of its own proceedings, punish for contempt and disorderly behavior, and with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected expel a member but no member shall be expelled a second time for the same offense.

A motion to strike out the section was debated by Godman, Stiles and Turner, and was lost.

Sec. 10.—Each house shall elect its own officers and the senate shall choose a temporary president when the lieutenant governor shall not attend as president, or shall act as governor. When presiding the lieutenant governor shall have the deciding vote in case of an equal division of the senate.

Godman moved to strike out all but the last sentence.

Moore and Griffitts said a few words, and the noes had it.

Sec 11.—Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and publish the same, except such parts as require secrecy. The doors of each house shall be kept open except when the public welfare shall require secrecy.

Griffitts moved to strike out both exceptions referring to secrecy.

Moore, Griffitts, Warner and Manly debated and this amendment failed.

The section was agreed to.

Sec. 12.—The first legislature shall meet on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in November, A. D., 1889. The second legislature shall meet on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January A. D., 1891, and biennially thereafter unless especially convened by the governor but the times of meeting of subsequent sessions may be changed by the legislature. After the first legislature the sessions shall not be for more than sixty days.

Hoyt asked a question, which Moore answered. Weir moved to insert "sessions of the legislature shall be held" before "biennially"; adopted.

The section was agreed to.

Sec. 13.—No member of the legislature during the term for which he is elected shall be appointed or elected to any civil office in the state which shall have been created or the emoluments of which shall have been increased during the term for which he was elected. Agreed to.

Sec. 14.—No person being a member of congress, or holding any civil or military office under the United States or any other power shall be eligible to be a member of the legislature and if any person after his election as a member of the legislature shall be elected to congress or be appointed to any other office, civil or military, under the government of the United States or any other power his acceptance thereof shall vacate his seat; provided, that officers in the militia of the state who receive no annual salary, local officers and postmasters whose compensation does not exceed $300 per annum, shall not be ineligible. Agreed to.

Sec. 15.—The governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the legislature.

Griffitts moved to strike out the section, lost.

The section was agreed to.

Sec. 16.—Members of the legislature shall be privileged from arrest in all cases except treason, felony and breach of the peace. They shall not be subject to any civil process during the session of the legislature nor for fifteen days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session.

Dunbar moved to strike out "and after the termination"; adopted 7 to 19.

The section was agreed to.

Sec. 17.—No member of the legislature shall be liable in any civil action or criminal prosecution whatever for words spoken in debate; agreed to.

Sec. 18.—The style of the laws of the state shall be "Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Washington," and no law shall be enacted except by bill; agreed to.

Sec. 19.—No bill shall embrace more than one subject and that shall be expressed in the title.

E. H. Sullivan moved to make it read so that any violation of this section shall render the whole act void. Hoyt opposed. The amendment was lost.

The section was agreed to.

Sec 20.—Any bill may originate in either house of the legislature, and a bill passed by one house may be amended in the other; agreed to.

Sec. 21. The yeas and nays of members of either house shall be entered on the journal on the demand of one-sixth of the members present; agreed to.

Sec. 22. No bill shall become a law unless on its final passage the vote be taken by yeas and nays, the names of the members voting for and against the same be entered on the journal of each house, and a majority of the members elected to each house be recorded thereon as voting in favor of it.

Stiles offered an amendment to the effect that no bill should become a law unless presented to the legislature at least ten days before adjournment; lost.

Stiles raised a point of no quorum; not in order in committee of the whole.

Turner moved to strike out all of the section beginning, "And a majority etc."

Power proposed to make it read, "A majority of those present."

Debated by Power, Moore, Cosgrove, Sullivan of Tacoma, Dunbar, Turner, Godman, Sullivan of Whitman and T. M. Reed and then Stiles's amendment was lost.

Turner's motion to strike out was lost.

The section was agreed to.

Sec. 24—Each member of the legislature shall receive for his services $5 for each day's attendance during the session, and ten cents for every mile he shall travel in going to and returning from the place of meeting of the legislature on the most usual route.

Sharpstein sent up a substitute, giving each member $250 per session and 10 cents per mile mileage, and $5 per day for special sessions. Debated by Sharpstein, Eldridge (who suggested $300), Cosgrove, Weir and Moore, and lost.

Suksdorf moved to change $5 to $3.

Sharpstein moved to further amend by making the amount $4. Debated by Suksdorf, Dyer, Dunbar, Griffitts, T. M. Reed and Eldridge, and both lost.

Power moved to amend by authorizing future legislatures to increase or decrease this amount, except that no legislature shall increase its own pay. Lost, 19 to 30.

Gowey moved to amend by providing for a fixed salary and mileage, to be enacted by the legislature. Debated by Gowey, Minor and Moore, and lost.

The section was agreed to.

Sec. 24.—The legislature shall never authorize any lottery or grant any divorce.

A motion to strike out the section was debated by Jones, Sullivan of Tacoma, Griffitts, Mires, Weir, Manly, Dyer, Eshelman, Eldridge and Moore; lost.

The section was agreed to.

Sec. 25.—The legislature shall provide by law that all stationery required for the use of the state and all printing authorized and required by it, to be done for its use or for the state, shall be let by contract to the lowest bidder but the legislature may establish a maximum price. Provided that in case of emergency the legislature may otherwise provide. No member of the legislature or other state officer shall be interested in any such contract, either directly or indirectly.

Griffitts moved to strike the section out. Debated by Griffitts, Sullivan of Tacoma, Power, Weir, Moore and Buchanan, and struck out by yeas 24, nays 23.

Sec. 26.—The legislature shall never grant any extra compensation to any public officer, agent, servant or contractor, after their services shall have been rendered or the contract entered into nor shall the compensation of any public officer be increased or diminished during his term of office; agreed to.

Sec. 27.—The legislature shall direct by law in what manner and in what courts suits may be brought against the state; agreed to.

OATH OR AFFIRMATION

The Subject Left to the Legislature and the Section Stricken Out.

Sec. 28.—The members of the legislature and officers thereof before they enter upon their official duties shall take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I do solemnly swear or affirm that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Washington and will faithfully discharge the duties of (senator, representative or officer) according to the best of my abilities and that I have not knowingly or intentionally paid or contributed anything or made any promise in the nature of a bribe, directly or indirectly to influence any vote at the election at which I was chosen to fill said office, and have not accepted nor will I accept directly or indirectly any money pass or any other thing of value from any corporation, company or person for any vote or influence I may give, or withhold on any bill or resolution or appointment, or for any other official act." This oath shall be administered by a judge of the supreme or superior court or by the presiding officer of the house in the hall of the house to which the member is elected and the secretary of state shall record and file the oath subscribed by each member and officer. Any member or officer who shall refuse to take the oath prescribed shall forfeit his office. Any member or officer of the legislature who shall be convicted of having sworn falsely or violated his said oath shall forfeit his office, and be disqualified thereafter from holding the office of senator or member of the house of representatives or any office within the gift of the legislature, and such additional punishment as may be provided by law.

Suksdorf moved to strike out the clauses relating to taking bribes, etc.

Turner moved to further amend by striking out the whole section after the words "best of my abilities."

Moore could see no reason why this should be struck out and argued stoutly for the form of oath as prescribed in the section.

Eshelman would strike out the whole section and let the legislature provide. A man who would take a bribe would take this oath.

So thought Dunbar.

Durie thought this amendment out of order but the chair thought not. Debated by Turner, Eshelman, Dunbar and Moore.

The section was struck out. Yeas 0, nays 2?.

Sec. 29.—In all elections by the legislature the members shall vote viva voce, and their votes shall be entered on the journal.

A motion to strike out was debated by Buchanan and Turner and was lost.

The section was agreed to.

SECTION THIRTY.

In Which Special Legislation Is Forbidden

The next section was taken up and passed on by clauses so that as agreed to it stands as follows:

Section 30. Special legislation—The legislature is prohibited from enacting any private or special law in the following cases:

1 For changing the names of persons or constituting one person the heir at law of another. (Or granting divorces added.)

2 For laying out, opening or altering highways except in cases of state roads extending into more than one county and military roads to aid in the construction of which lands have been or may be granted by congress.

3 For authorizing persons to keep ferries wholly within this state.

4 Authorizing the sale or mortgage of real or personal property of minors, or others under disability.

5 For locating or changing any county seat. (Struck out.)

6 For assessments or collection of taxes or for extending the time for collection thereof.

7 For granting corporate powers or privileges.

8 For authorizing the apportionment of any part of the school fund.

9 For the incorporating of any town or village, or to amend the charter thereof.

10 From giving effect to invalid deeds, wills or other instruments.

11 Releasing or extinguishing, in whole or in part, the liability or other obligation of any person or corporation to this state, or to any municipal corporation therein.

12 Declaring any person of age or authorizing any minor to sell, lease or incumber his property.

13 Legalizing, except as against the state, the unauthorized or invalid act of any officers.

14 Granting to any corporation, association or individual any special or exclusive right, privilege or immunity. (Struck out.)

15 Exempting property from taxation. (Struck out.)

16 Restoring to citizenship persons who have been convicted of bribery or other infamous crimes. (Struck out.)

17 Regulating the rates of interest on money.

18 Remitting fines, penalties or forfeitures.

19 Providing for the management of common schools.

20 Creating offices, or prescribing the duties of offices in counties, cities and townships, and election or school districts. (Struck out.)

21 Authorizing the adoption of children.

At this point Moore moved that the committee rise and report progress. (Lost.)

22. Limitations of a civil or criminal action.

23 Changing county lines or locating or changing county seats. "Or changing" added.

24 In all other cases where a general law can be made applicable.

On motion of Durie the committee rose to report progress—33 to 17.

The president resumed the chair, and Blalock reported progress, and leave to sit again was granted.

The chair submitted a telegram from Boise City containing the congratulations of the Idaho convention on the progress of all the Northwest territories, stating that Idaho was now ready to present herself simultaneously with the other territories for admission, and asking assistance in her efforts to that end.

On motion of Stiles, the president was directed to send a suitable response doing the proper thing in the complimentary way, and expressing the hope that Idaho would get there.

Moore thought the gentleman's language might possibly be improved on, and Stiles didn't pretend to deny it while the president smilingly remarked that he would take care of the language in the telegram when he came to write it.

At 6:50 adjourned, on motion of Mires, until Friday morning at 9.

THE HELENA CONVENTION

A Long and Unsatisfactory Debate Over the Capital Question

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 8.—The wrangle over the location of the temporary capital is becoming tiresome to the large audiences that attend and the members who do not take any stock in the "funny business" and the antics of some of the delegates and the schemes that are concocted to advance their personal and political interests. The convention might well be classed as a boys' picnic with a fair proportion of able and sensible statesmen as lookers on.

No progress was made during the morning session. The situation is just what it was at the adjournment last night, with the exception that Bozeman holds the place that Missoula had possession of this morning. The waste of time consumed in proposing amendments and "joshing" and delaying business will add a large amount of expense to the delinquency list. This is the day that the appropriation is exhausted, and from this time until the convention adjourns the members will have to pay their expenses or accept the proposition of the Helena capitalists to foot the bills, and trust to congress for future recompense.

Parberry offered a substitute for section 2, the bone of contention, which, boiled down provides for leaving the seat of government at Helena. He spoke against running it around like a wagon and stopping for a short time at every station. There was five hundred dollars expense he said incurred yesterday in that kind of business, and it was most too expensive play for this convention to indulge in.

The substitute was then taken up and variously amended by substituting the names of all the towns voted upon yesterday, until Bozeman was finally reached when a motion was made by Cooper to adopt the substitute as amended.

Before action could be taken on this another amendment was offered by J. K. Toole, which had scarcely reached the clerk's desk when a motion was made and carried to take a recess.

Muth being absent from the convention and from the city, Joy announced yesterday that he was paired with him on three questions, one of them was that of the capital. This morning he again said he was so paired, when Richard said he thought that two members had announced that they were paired with Muth, and suggested an investigation, whereupon Winston stated that it was his understanding that he was paired with Muth until he heard Joy announce the fact of his being so paired, when he considered himself released.

Joy became vehement in defense of what he claimed to be Muth's integrity, and said he would protect Muth in his absence.

The president read a telegram from Mr Muth, in which he stated that he was paired with Joy on the apportionment question and with Winston on the capital. Joy offered to withdraw and let Winston hold the remaining pairing.

Sargeant objected, and wanted the convention to decide that Joy was so paired.

President Clark said that the chair had the right to make a decision in such matters. He, therefore, as Joy had been considered so paired yesterday, released Winston.

The vote on the different cities substituted for Helena was as follows: Great Falls, ayes 26, noes 42, Billings, ayes 28, noes 39, Anaconda, ayes 34, noes 34, Bozeman, ayes 21, noes 41.

The committee appointed to investigate the charges made against the Journal representatives yesterday asked for a longer time in which to make their report.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Produce receipts past twenty four hours include: Wheat, 127,500 ctls, mostly aboard ship, flour 8900 qr sacks, oats, 280 ctls, potatoes, 990 sacks, barley 11,500 ctls.

Freights and Charters—Grain freight market ruled generally quiet with a softer tone owing to the weakness of foreign grain markets. There was a light demand for spot grain tonnage, and the charters for the week in that description of vessels were the Br bk Royal Alice, iron, 1109 tons for United Kingdom, Havre or Antwerp, at 38s 9d; Am sh Armenia, wood, 1644 tons, United Kingdom, Havre or Antwerp at 35s. Two vessels were taken for wheat for South America, the Am ship Yorktown at 36s 3d and the Am ship Alex McCallum at 3?s 6d. Arrivals in of grain vessels having prior charters were light, the Br bk Fiji, iron, 1357 tons at 36s 3d, being the only one reported.

Miscellaneous charters steady and active. Chartered for lumber bark John Worster, Puget Sound to Melbourne; ship Palmyra, Sound to West coast; ship Lucy A Nickels, Sound to Buenos Ayres; ship Edward O'Brien, Sound to Sydney; Haw bk W. B. Godfrey, Sound to Honolulu; schr J. S. Redfield, Columbia River to Australia. Chartered for coal, Bol bk Bundaleer, Departure Bay to San Francisco; bark Arcturus and ship Kennebec, Seattle to San Francisco.

Wheat—The spot market ruled steady to firm, following the tenor of Liverpool advices. At times considerable strength was imparted and the demand quite brisk at a fractional advance. The volume of spot business passing was not large, the bulk of transactions being made in the interior on the basis of from 13?¾ to 13?¼. Holders as a rule are firm and offerings small. Exporters have been willing to pay full market values but decline [illegible] extreme asking prices. To-day's market [illegible] steady with a fair inquiry. No 1 shipping [illegible].

Wheat [illegible]ons—Business at the produce exchange [illegible] moderate proportions with occasional [illegible]. Prices improved during the week, buyer the year selling up from $1 41½ to $1 43½, receding again to $1 42½. Buyer season sold from $1 47 to $1 48½. To-day's forenoon sales were 800 tons buyer year at $1 47½; 200 tons at $1 42¾; 300 tons at $1 42¼; buyer season at $1 47¼; seller year (new) at $1 33¼.

Wheat—Afternoon session. Buyer year opened at $1 42, closed, $1 41⅝; buyer season closed, $1 46⅝; seller year (new), $1 32½.

Barley—The market shows much weakness and prices declined 2@3c per ctl, principally on lower grades of feed. Brewing was in fair request and prices well maintained. Receipts of feed during the month of July were heavy, amounting to some 10,500 tons. Sales were 18,000 tons, leaving about 21,000 tons on hand August 1. Quote choice feed at 67½c, No 1 feed at 65c, lower grades at 60@62½c, brewing at 85@95c. Futures quiet, at a decline.

Oats—The market has ruled steady with a good daily demand and prices were without material change. Consignments were moderate and sellers were favored by light supplies. Stocks on hand August 1 were 2600 tons, against 3500 tons on July 1. Quote feed No 1 and choice, $1 15@1 20; fair to good, $1 07½@1 12½; lower grades, $1 05@1 07½; milling firm at $1 20@1 27½.

Millstuffs—Prices were well maintained by light receipts and a good demand until the close when an easier feeling prevailed and values dropped 50 cents per ton. Bran ranges from $14@15 50; middlings $14 50@18.

Hops—The spot market is lifeless, there being no stocks on hand and few speculators working the interior at present. Advices from the East generally regarded as in favor of growers. Few contracts ahead have been reported to date. Quotations nominal, 10@14c.

Potatoes—The week's receipts have been large and stocks are accumulating. Prices generally favor buyers. Quote Burbanks 60c@$1 10, Garnet Chile, 60@65c, Peerless, 60@80c.

Wool—Dull and easy. Buyers doing little or nothing at present. Values range at 13@20c for Eastern Oregon; 22@25c for valley.

Bags—Quiet with a very light inquiry. The market continues unsettled owing to holders of small outside lots pressing sales. Quotations nominal at about 7½c for Calcuttas. A vessel arrived in during the week with some 2½ million bags, the bulk of which were sold ahead.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Wheat receipts past 24 hours at the principal receiving points were 678,000 bushels and shipments 79?,000 bushels.

[illegible] Wonderful GERMAN Invigorator.

LOST HEALTH DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR

THE OLDEST GREATEST AND BEST REMEDY for the cure of Nervous and Physical Debility, Vital Exhaustion, Seminal Weakness, Loss of Manhood, Failing Memory and Relaxed and Enfeebled Condition of the Genito-Urinary Organs.

It speedily cures Impotence, Early Decay, Loss of Vigor, SEMINAL WEAKNESS and all the evil effects of youthful follies and abuse or EXCESSES OF MATURITY.

It permanently prevents all unnatural loss from the system, as thousands can attest who have used the Remedy in the past quarter of a century which it has been before the public.

It is indeed a wonderful remedy—toning the nerves, strengthening the muscles, checking the waste, invigorating the whole system and restoring the afflicted to HEALTH and HAPPINESS.

The reason so many cannot be cured of Weakness and the above diseases is owing to complication called PROSTATORRHEA with Hyperesthesia, which requires special treatment.

DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2, with one peculiar special treatment, is the only possible cure for PROSTATORRHEA. By it MANHOOD is restored and the hand of time moved back from age to youth.

Price of either Invigorator, $2. Case of six bottles, $10. Sent to any address covered securely from observation.

Dr. Liebig & Co. treat successfully by Homoeopathy every form of SPECIAL PRIVATE or CHRONIC DISEASES without mercury or nauseous drugs. If vitality is drained from the body numerous diseases follow that baffle ordinary medical treatment. If allowed to continue the unnatural loss causes Consumption, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Insanity, etc. Cures guaranteed. IN THE ELEVENTH HOUR IMPORTANT TESTIMONY Comes to Light.

Gov. Pennoyer Is Disinclined to Interfere With the Course of the Law—How the Condemned Man Passed His Last Night.

Whether or not he is guilty of the murder of Lee Yick, it is quite certain that Chee Gong will be hanged to-day. The execution will take place between 11 and 1 o'clock.

Governor Pennoyer has already said that he cannot see his way clear to interfere with the course of justice. He reiterated this Wednesday night and again last night, and Chee Gong's only hope of life rests upon the possible change of mind on the part of the chief executive.

Public sentiment has undergone a tremendous change during the past week. A mental epidemic, if such it may be called, seems to prevail in the city, and all classes, high and low, white, blacks and such Chinese as are not enemies of Chee Gong, think that the condemned man is innocent and favor the commutation of his sentence. And now that the attorneys for Chee Gong came forward last night with newly discovered evidence, supported by the affidavit of Ling Duck, to the effect that he attended the meeting of a Chinese society where money was raised to prosecute Chee Gong, though innocent, there is an universal sentiment in favor of granting the condemned man a respite until his cause can be further inquired into.

At all events, Governor Pennoyer has until noon to-day, at least, to change his mind.

THE LAST APPEAL TO THE COURTS.

The final appeal to the courts was made yesterday afternoon. Williams & Wood, Chee Gong's attorneys, took the affidavits of several prominent Chinese and filed them, together with Chee Gong's motion for a stay of execution, and for a new trial in the state circuit court. The motion is based upon the discovery of important evidence, the existence of which the condemned man has heretofore had no knowledge, nor were his attorneys, with reasonable diligence, able to bring it to light at the trial. Chee Gong's name was affixed to it. The first part of his name was written clearly, but the letters of the word Gong were huddled together.

There was also an affidavit by S. B. Linthicum, an attorney. He certified that District Attorney McGinn not being in town he served Deputy District Attorney N. D. Simon with copies of the affidavits and the motion of Chee Gong, but that official declined to accept service. Copies of the papers were also sent to the governor. They were also subscribed and sworn to before a notary public, H. H. Parker, yesterday, and are as follows, sans some of the legal verbiage:

CHEE GONG WAS NOT THERE.

I, Ling Duck, being first duly sworn on my oath, say as follows: I am a resident of the city of Portland, in said state and county, and am at present employed as cook in the Knickerbocker restaurant on Washington street in said city. I am acquainted with Chee Gong, now in the county jail of said county under sentence of death for the murder of Lee Yick in the Chinese theater in said city in November, 1887. I was well acquainted with the said Lee Yick during his life time, and was on very intimate terms with the said Lee Yick, and was a member of the same secret society, known as Luen Yu Tong, of which he was a member. I was also a class mate of said Lee Yick at the Chinese mission school of the United Brethren church in said city of Portland. I was in the Chinese theater in said city on the night when Lee Yick was murdered. At the time the affray commenced I was standing about two feet from Lee Yick, and saw the affair from its beginning until Lee Yick fell the last time. When he fell I was only four or five feet from him. Law Ding and I picked him up and led or lifted him to a point near the top of the stairs leading to the street, where he was taken in charge by other members of his society and friends and carried to the police station. I assert most positively that Chee Gong was not among the assailants of the said Lee Yick on said occasion, and that I did not see him in the Chinese theater at all that night.

HOW THE CONSPIRACY WAS FORMED.

"On the night after the said murder was committed, a meeting of the members of the said Luen Yu Tong Society was held for the purpose of raising money to prosecute Chee Gong for said murder. At said meeting a number of those who were present objected to paying any money for the prosecution of Chee Gong, on the ground that the murder was not as a matter of fact committed by him, but this objection on their part was met by those who favored the prosecution by the plea that Chee Gong was a member of the same family as Gee Ton, who was said to have been the leader in the attack on Lee Yick, and that it was therefore just and proper that Chee Gong should suffer for the crime committed by Gee Ton, unless Gee Ton himself could be captured.

"It was not asserted or pretended, or even intimated by any person present at said meeting that Chee Gong was actually guilty of the murder for which it was resolved to prosecute him, and I myself, notwithstanding my knowledge that Chee Gong had not committed said murder, contributed $10 to the fund which was raised at said meeting for the purpose of prosecuting him."

LING DUCK.

AH FAT PERJURED HIMSELF.

I, Chan Back Young, being first duly sworn, on my oath say as follows: "I am a resident of the city of Portland, in said state and county, and have resided in said city over ten years. I am engaged in business as an insurance agent in said city. On the 30th day of July, 1889, I had an interview with Ah Fat, at the American laundry, corner of Tenth and F streets, in said city, where the said Ah Fat is employed. At the last trial of Chee Gong for the murder of Lee Yick, resulting in the conviction of said Chee Gong, the said Ah Fat was a witness against said Chee Gong and testified that he saw said murder committed, and that Chee Gong was one of the murderers; but at said interview with me Ah Fat stated most positively that, as a matter of fact, he was not present or in the Chinese theater at all when said murder was committed, but was on that night on Portland Heights, where he was then employed as a gardener etc., by C. P. Heald and others.

"He further stated to me that he testified as he did in said trial because he had been urged to do so by Lee Toy, Fun See and others, on the ground that he, the said Ah Fat, could speak better English than most of the other Chinamen who were available as witnesses, and that the said Lee Toy and others directed him as to what he should testify on said trial, and that he testified according to their instruction.

"On Monday, the 29th day of July, 1889, I was present at a conversation between said Ah Fat and Seid Back, a merchant in said city of Portland, at the store of the latter in said city, at which the said Ah Fat stated to said Seid Back that said Chee Gong was innocent of the crime for which he had been convicted, but that if they (meaning his prosecutors) could not get large fish they must get small fish."

CHAN BACK YOUNG.

CHEE GONG IS NOT GUILTY.

I, Seid Back, being duly sworn, on my oath say as follows: "I am a merchant in the city of Portland, county and state aforesaid. Soon after the murder of Lee Lick in the Chinese theater, in said city, one Lee Shung, who resides in the city of San Francisco, Cal., called on me and requested me to join him in an effort to secure the conviction of Chee Gong for said murder, and I informed myself as well as I could in regard to the facts connected with said murder, and came to the conclusion that Chee Gong was not guilty of said crime; and I therefore declined to assist in prosecuting Chee Gong, and informed Lee Shung of my belief in the innocence of Chee Gong. Lee Shung thereupon admitted to me that Chee Gong was not guilty, and was not even present in the Chinese theater on the night the murder was committed—'But,' he said to me, 'Gee Ton was one of the men who murdered Lee Yick, and, you know, by our Chinese law and custom, if we cannot get the one who is actually guilty, we ought to kill the one who comes nearest to him, or some member of his family.'

"I said, 'That is not right, and I do not think that way now.'

"I therefore refused to assist him in the prosecution. I have not previously disclosed these facts, for the reason that I feared to get into trouble with the Chinese societies and others with whom I am connected in business; and because I did not think it possible that an innocent man could be convicted; and I only divulge them at the last moment in the hope of thereby saving the life of an innocent man." SEID BACK.

THE GOVERNOR IS FIRM.

Governor Pennoyer had read the affidavits when a reporter called at his house last evening. The governor said he was opposed to capital punishment, and if he had his own way about it, he would commute the sentence of every murderer to imprisonment for life, but as the laws prescribe the death penalty for murders in the first degree, he could not feel justified in interposing his individual judgment between the laws and their execution.

"What shall I say in the paper in the morning?" asked the reporter, as he arose to leave.

The governor looked very serious and bowed his head in thought for a moment. He said, very slowly:

"I must reiterate that I cannot see my way clear to interfere."

"What about the affidavits you received this evening?"

"They are Chinese testimony, and according to the written statements of prominent Chinese merchants furnished to me, such testimony is not reliable."

CHEE GONG'S LAST NIGHT ON EARTH.

Chee Gong was sitting in the lower berth of his attic and basement cot when the reporter saw him in the witness room in the county jail shortly before 9 o'clock last night. His feet were crossed under him and he was holding a Christian Bible, printed in Chinese, up to the light and was reading it very carefully. His slippers were under the bed. In the opposite corner of the room sat Mr. Lund, the death watch.

Chee Gong raised his eyes from the Bible as the iron door creaked behind the reporter, and recognizing in the visitor one who has frequently talked to him about Chinese, he smiled pleasantly, reached out his right hand and, clasping the re[illegible] peating what the governor had said less than ten minutes before, that the misery of his last night on earth might not be lessened.

He has been sleeping very little of late. During the past few nights he has sat up until 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning reading his Bible, which he has read through eleven times. He reads for an hour or so, then rests for a few minutes, after which he resumes his reading. Then he lies down, not to sleep, but toss about the berth until 6 or 7 o'clock. He did not sleep over fifteen or twenty minutes Wednesday night. He arose shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning.

Chee Gong's spiritual wants have not been neglected. Yesterday three Catholic priests, Fathers Gibney, Lynch and another priest, called and baptized him. Last night Mrs. Gunder prayed with him for some time.

Chee Gong had been absorbed in his Bible for quite a time when the reporter asked him how long he had been in the United States.

HE HAS RELATIVES IN CHINA.

"Seven years," he replied. "I lived one year in San Francisco, one year in other towns in California, three years in Portland and two years in the county jail."

"Are your parents or family living in China?"

"Yes," said Chee Gong, as he closed the book and moved to the edge of the bed, and put on his slippers. "My father is 101 years old. My mother died many years ago, but I think my foster mother is still living. Then I have a wife, and a daughter 14 years old."

The condemned man's voice was choked with emotion, and tears ran down his cheeks as he spoke of his aged father, and his wife and daughter. He meditated for a moment, until he had regained control of his voice, and lifting his moistened eyes from the stone floor until he looked the reporter squarely in the face, he went on:

"Well, I think my poor old father dead, my foster mother dead, my wife dead, my daughter dead, all dead and pretty soon I die, too. I have been in jail nearly two years and I have not been able to send them a cent and I suppose by this time they have all starved to death. No money from me, no wages in China, no get money, no get anything to eat, oh I think they are all dead, sure."

Chee Gong then clasped his hands around his knees and riveted his gaze on some object on the whitewashed wall on the opposite side of the room. Continuing in this posture, he said:

"Lee Toy heap foolee me. He kill five persons. He send me to the gallows and that kill my father, foster mother, my wife and my daughter."

Chee Gong released his hands and duly accounted for each of Lee Toy's victims upon his fingers.

CHEE GONG IS A CHRISTIAN.

"Do you believe in Christ?" was asked.

The Chinaman placed his left hand upon the Bible, raised his right hand, and, lifting his eyes heavenward, said:

"I am a Christian. Lee Toy foolee me very, very much. I did not kill Lee Yick. I am innocent. I call my old father as my witness, I call my mother as my witness, I call Christ as my witness, I call my son as my witness, I call my joy as my witness that I am not guilty. Christ knows my heart and he knows that I am innocent."

Chee Gong spoke very fervidly, and tears again filled his eyes. Each assertion was accompanied with an emphatic thump upon the Bible, and as he concluded, he clasped both hands over his heart.

"Do you like your Bible?"

The condemned man clasped the book reverently to his breast, and said, as a little smile played about his mouth: "This Bible is all the same a heap good book. I heap like it. When I was in the iron cage I used to read it until 11 o'clock every night. Now I read it until 3 or 4 o'clock every morning. I love to read the Bible. Every time I go through it I see Him."

Chee Gong was in very good humor for the succeeding several minutes and told of the visit of the Catholic priests and of their baptism of him. He did not understand the baptism and it presented itself in a very ludicrous manner to him. He ran his fingers through his hair and showed how the water was poured upon his head.

"They put water on my head," he said, laughing heartily. "What you call 'em anyway? Baptism, eh! Heap very good."

HE IS NOT AFRAID TO DIE.

Chee Gong indulged in another hearty laugh at his baptismal experience, and then settled down and becoming serious spoke of his approaching end. He held his head erect and there was a determined look in his eye as he said:

"I am not afraid to die. I no do nothing, but they hang me all the same. All I say is, if you hang me, hang me in the open air where I can see Him—my God, my Christ, my Son, my joy, and not in a woodshed where the roof shuts off the light of heaven."

"If I had killed Lee Yick I would have fretted to death long ago. I am an innocent man, therefore I hold up bravely and will be firm to the last. What for they hang me, anyway? Lee Yick was killed. Some one killed him. Gee Chon do it. My name and Gee Chon's name pretty near all same. Gee Chon run away. Chee Gong, who belong to same family as Gee Chon, arrested because they no catch Gee Chon, and Chee Gong must die."

"Your friends called on the governor in your behalf to-night. Haven't you some hope that the governor will respite you yet?"

"I no know what the governor do no more than you do. You come around to-morrow morning and I tell you what the governor do."

Chee Gong laughed heartily again. Then the reporter bid him good-night, and he picked up his Bible and began reading it again.

ANOTHER HUSBAND DUPED.

Mrs. Caroline Seelbinder Tires of Her Surroundings, and Skips With $1000 of Her Better Half's Cash.

Wednesday afternoon John Seelbinder, a rancher living on the Tualatin, came to town. His mission was not the purchase of supplies or machinery, but he wanted to find his runaway wife. It was not his affection for her that caused him to invoke the aid of the police in finding her, but he wanted something in the way of paper money that she carried.

He is quoted as having made the following statement of his domestic trouble in last evening's Telegram:

"About three months ago I brought my family, consisting of my wife and eight children, the oldest of whom is 13 years old, and the youngest a very small baby, from the East. We formerly lived in Chicago. I had several thousand dollars, and after buying my ranch and stocking it, I had a little over $1000 left. This sum was all in greenbacks. My wife and I had lived very peaceably together, though she had reason to think that she was not wholly satisfied with her situation, and on that account I humored her slightest whims in every way possible. She often said she wanted to go back East, and intimated that her old home in Detroit was far pleasanter than the one she had here. We were married in that city in 1875, and she had formerly lived in Bay City, Mich. Last Monday morning I left my house just after breakfast and went out to the fields to work. When I returned at noon for lunch I found my wife, Caroline, gone and the children all crying. They said that their mother had disappeared soon after I left the house, and they did not know where she went to. I supposed, perhaps, she had gone to call on a neighbor living a couple of miles away. I waited till night; still she did not come: so thinking something might be wrong I made an examination of my private papers, and opening the box where I kept my valuables, found that $1000 in greenbacks were gone. That was all the explanation of the mystery I needed.

"I attended to the wants of the children, got dinner and put them all to bed, and next morning started out to find my wife. I think likely she has gone either to Detroit or Bay City. She is not a good-looking woman, and is 35 years old. On her left cheek are several very dark moles and her hair is dark brown. Her eyes are clear, bluish-gray, and she is an inch or two above five feet in height."

Securing an officer, the deserted husband looked the city through yesterday morning, but failed to find the woman. Telegrams were then sent to the police departments of the cities above named, for them to be on the lookout for the woman. A reward has been offered for her arrest and the recovery of the greenbacks.

THE LAW OF TRESPASS.

FOREST GROVE, Or., Aug. 6.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN.

Suppose a person is found guilty of trespass, fined a certain amount and costs. Provided he pays the fine and not the costs, can he be imprisoned for the costs? C. L. LARGE.

[Hill's code, section 1794, provides that a person convicted of trespass "shall be committed, in default of payment of the fine and costs imposed, to the jail of the county in which the offense is committed, one day for each two dollars of the said fine and costs."]

A CARD.

I desire to tender my sincere thanks to the officers of the Oregon & California railroad, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and the orders of Ancient Order of United Workmen and Masons for their kindness and attention shown to me in my recent bereavement. Respectfully,

MRS. J. W. MILLER.

MURDERED FOR HIS RANCH.

Light Thrown on the Mysterious Disappearance of a Settler.

LARAMIE, Arizona, Aug. 8.—Over two months ago Robert Burnett, a well-known and eccentric ranchman, living on the Fort Sanders timber reservation, mysteriously disappeared. A family by the name of Black, who formerly occupied his ranch, but whom he had succeeded in ousting, again took possession of it, and announced that they would hold it against all comers. This aroused the suspicion of Burnett's friends, and they appealed to the authorities. A searching party was organized about three weeks ago, but failed to discover his whereabouts. Yesterday May Fullman, while picking berries in an unfrequented spot two miles from the ranch, found the burned remains of a body that is now believed to have been

About Finishes Its Labors.

The "Paymaster" Benefit and Manager Cordray's Proposition—More Relief To Be Sent on This Morning's Train.

The various committees soliciting contributions for the aid of the sufferers by the fire at Spokane Falls have about concluded their labors, having collected $5015 25. This, with the $353 left at THE OREGONIAN business office, makes the total amount subscribed by the citizens of Portland reach the handsome figure of $5368 25.

STILL IN NEED OF HELP.

Spokane Falls is still in need of assistance, as will be seen by the following dispatch received yesterday:

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., Aug. 8.

To Van B. DeLashmutt, Mayor of Portland: I have conferred fully with the local relief committee and find that there are many persons in want, and instant relief must be furnished them. The great want is blankets, comforters and tents—say 300 blankets, 300 comforters, and 800 tents of assorted sizes. Spend all the money you can raise for these articles. Food has reached here sufficient for present needs. Money is not the best thing to send, as you can buy neither food or raiment here.

CHAS. H. DODD
Chairman Portland Relief Committee.

THE RESPONSE.

To the above the following answer was sent yesterday afternoon:

PORTLAND, Aug. 8.

Chas. H. Dodd, care of Mayor Furth, Spokane Falls, W. T.: No tents obtainable. Will ship by to-morrow's passenger train about seventy large wagon covers, to be used as tents, and 300 each of blankets and comforters.

D. D. OLIPHANT.

THE PAYMASTER BENEFITS.

Every indication points to the realization of quite a large sum of money for the Spokane sufferers from the series of performances given by "The Paymaster" Company at the New Park theater.

The production last night was witnessed by a large and delighted audience and netted the Spokane fund $110. As the attendance for the balance of the week will no doubt be even larger, it is safe to predict quite a neat sum for Spokane. The police have sold all their original supply of tickets and Chief Parish last night made a requisition on the managers for 500 more. There remains but three more performances of "The Paymaster," to-night, to-morrow night, and the Saturday matinee. The benefit tickets are good for any of these three performances and can be exchanged for reserved seats without extra charge at Gunst's cigar store, Hoyt's music store, and at the box office of the New Park.

ANOTHER GENEROUS OFFER.

The following dispatch was received by Agent D. B. Newcomb, of the Northern Pacific Express Company, yesterday:

SPOKANE FALLS, Aug. 8.

D. B. Newcomb, Agent Northern Pacific Express Company, Portland: We will transport contributions for the Spokane sufferers free if shipped by relief committee, not exceeding 100 pounds. Shipments exceeding 100 pounds should go by freight. N. G. HALL, Superintendent.

MANAGER CORDRAY'S PROPOSITION.

Yesterday morning's OREGONIAN published a copy of a letter addressed by Manager Cordray, of the theater and musee, to Mayor DeLashmutt and the members of the relief committee making an offer in behalf of the Spokane sufferers. Owing to the absence of Mayor DeLashmutt and Charles H. Dodd, chairman of the relief committee, the communication was considered by the other members of the committee. Yesterday the members discussed the proposition made by Manager Cordray and concluded to give a decided answer this forenoon at 10 o'clock. The proposition was considered favorably, and will doubtless be accepted by the committee.

THE "OREGONIAN'S" POPULAR FUND.

The subscriptions left at THE OREGONIAN business office now foots up to $353.

In the appended list of contributors it will be seen that Chinese hand come forward with the handsome sum of $225. They were not asked for contributions, but sent in their cash voluntarily. Ever since the fire the Chinese firm of Jong Wah & Co. had a subscription book open for contribution in their store, and the fund reaching $200 yesterday they sent it in. Hop Chong & Co., as a firm, gave $25. They notified one of the committees that they wanted to contribute, but as the committee was too busy to call on them immediately, the Chinamen thought that they were going to be overlooked so they left their contribution with THE OREGONIAN. The generous action of these Chinese is very commendable. If there are any Chinamen in Spokane Falls sufferers by the fire, the relief committee of the latter city should take cognizance of the fact that Chinamen as well as white men contributed to the fund.

Following is THE OREGONIAN'S list of the last contributors:

ROYAL [illegible] POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

For quick raising, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, most palatable and nutritive food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration.

Prof. H. A. Mott, U. S. Government Chemist, after examining officially the principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government.

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.

State of Oregon,
County of Multnomah, } SS.

By virtue of a decree and execution issued out of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Multnomah, to me directed, wherein Ben Holladay is plaintiff and Joseph Holladay is defendant, for the sum of $324,901 82-100 judgment and the further sum of $749 80-100 and interest on $324,901 82-100 at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from the 10th day of July, 1889; also, the further sum of $206 15-100 costs and accruing costs, in favor of Joseph Holladay, I duly levied upon the following described real property, to wit: Lots Number one (1), seven (7) and eight (8), in block [illegible], and lot three (3) in block numbered 62, in the City of Portland; also, lots numbered six (6), seven (7), eight (8), and the undivided one-half of the south half of block numbered twenty-three (23), in Couch's addition to the City of Portland, all of said real property being situate in Multnomah county, and State of Oregon. Also the following described personal property, to-wit: 625 shares of the capital stock of the Willamette Steam Mills Lumbering Company, 1050 shares of the capital stock of the Oregon [illegible] Company, and all fixtures, household goods, and furniture, wines and liquors in the dwelling house situated at the southwest corner of Third and Stark streets, Portland, Oregon.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of said decree and execution, I will, on Monday, the 26th day of August, 1889, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., at the Courthouse door, in said County and State, sell, subject to redemption, all of the above described real property; also, all of the above described shares of stock, at public auction to the highest bidders for cash; and on said Monday, August 26th, 1889, at the said dwelling house at the southwest corner of Third and Stark streets, Portland, Oregon, at the hour of one o'clock P. M., I will sell all of the said fixtures, household goods, furniture, wines and liquors at public auction to the highest bidders for cash, or so much thereof as will satisfy said decree and execution, interest and costs.
